TEXT-BOOKS IN MIDDLE SCHOOLS.

THE following Note and Extracts from the Proceedings of the Central Text-Book Committee are published for general information.

CALCUTTA,
The 3rd August 1896.

A. CROFT,
Director of Public Instruction.

(1) A Note on Bengali Grammar prepared by the Central Text-Book Committee.

VARIOUS superfluous matters have, of late, been introduced into text-books on Bengali grammar intended for boys. This has tended to render the subject complicated, and to increase, unnecessarily, the bulk of the books. Bengali grammar means the art of speaking and writing the Bengali language correctly. It is, therefore, undesirable to include in it any detailed rules of Sanskrit grammar relating to words and expressions which never, or but rarely, occur in Bengali. Nor does the practice of making rules and classifying words, in imitation of the method followed in text-books on English grammar, appear to be well adapted for teaching the elements of Bengali grammar. A few points are, accordingly, noted below as instances of matter that should not find a place in books on the subject:—

I. A minute and elaborate classification of letters, such as ঘোষ, অঘোষ, নাদ, বিবার, সংবার, &c., should be avoided. There is no objection, however, to make a distinction between অল্পপ্রাণ and মহাপ্রাণ letters. The vowels should be classified as long and short, and the prolation of vowels should be omitted.

II. Rules showing the different parts of the mouth, from which different letters are pronounced, should avoid such complex forms as কণ্ঠৌষ্ঠ্য and দন্তৌষ্ঠ্য।

III. All attempts to give rules for the various pronunciations of the same letters should be avoided in an elementary work on grammar. Boys are to learn these from practice.

IV. Rules of সন্ধি relating to forms, which either do not occur, or but rarely occur, in Bengali, should be avoided.

V. Detailed rules as to the use of ষ and ণ should be avoided.

VI. The classification of শব্দ as অব্যয় and সব্যয় should be omitted.

VII. A minute and elaborate classification of parts of speech, such as the classification of nouns into common, proper, &c., and the classification of adjectives into বিশেষণীয় বিশেষণ, &c., should be avoided.

VIII. Declensions should be taught more by paradigms than by elaborate rules.

IX. It is not desirable that অস্মদ্ and যুষ্মদ্ should be treated as the pronominal bases of the first and the second person respectively.

X. Detailed rules of inflection, such as "প্রায় সমস্ত বৃক্ষবাচক শব্দ, এবং দার, অক্ষত ও লাজ শব্দ পুংলিঙ্গ" should be avoided.

XI. Minute and elaborate rules for samás should be avoided.

XII. There is no necessity for framing rules in a Bengali grammar for একদেশী সমাস, প্রাদি সমাস, উপমিত সমাস, রূপক সমাস, &c., but as regards cases of কর্ম্মধারয় সমাস like মুখচন্দ্র, &c., it would be enough if the meaning be explained as মুখই চন্দ্র বা চন্দ্রের ন্যায় মুখ, the first being called রূপক and the second উপমিত সমাস।

XIII. In lieu of rules for the formation of irregular samás-compounds, such as ময়ূরব্যংসক, a list of such words in common use as অকিঞ্চন, অকুতোভয়, অর্থান্তর, তন্মাত্র, মহারাজ, কাপুরুষ, গোষ্ঠ, গোষ্পদ, হরিশ্চন্দ্র, আশ্চর্য্য, &c., should be given, with a bare statement that they are irregularly formed (নিপাতনে সিদ্ধ).

XIV. With regard to কৃদন্ত and উণাদ্যন্ত, detailed rules should be avoided, but the words in common use, not covered by general rules, should be given in a নিপাতন list.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties an uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

Further report from Noakhali shows that there is very slight distress in the island of Hatia, and measures are being taken to relieve such distress as exists. No report received from Cuttack, where heavy floods were reported last week.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers.

Class I:—

For Class I the tonnage, as obtained by the system of measurement for Class II, shall be increased by one-half. For vessels above 5,000 maunds measurement of this class, any fraction of 1,000 maunds, less than 500 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 500 maunds, to be charged as 500 maunds only. The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 30th July, 1896:

NO. 17 OF 1896.

A Bill to provide for the segregation of pauper lepers and the control of lepers following certain callings.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the segregation of pauper lepers and the control of lepers following certain callings; It is hereby enacted as follows:

Title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Lepers Act, 1896.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India; but

(3) It shall not come into force in any part thereof until the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, has, by notification in the local Gazette, declared it applicable thereto.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "leper" means any person suffering from any variety of leprosy in whom the process of ulceration has commenced; and

(2) "pauper leper" means a leper—

(a) who has in a public place solicited alms or exposed or exhibited any sores, wounds, bodily ailment or deformity with the object of exciting charity or of obtaining alms, or

(b) who is at large without any ostensible means of subsistence.

Appointment of leper asylums by Local Government.

3. The Local Government may, by notification in the local Gazette, appoint any place to be a leper asylum for the purposes of this Act and define the local areas from which lepers may be sent to such asylum, and may, in like manner, alter or cancel any such notification.

Appointment of Inspectors of Lepers and Superintendents of Asylums.

4. The Local Government may appoint, either by name or by virtue of his office, any Medical Officer of the Government to be an Inspector of Lepers and any person to be a Superintendent of a Leper Asylum with such establishment as may, in its opinion, be necessary, and every officer or person so appointed shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code. XLV of 1860.

Constitution of Board.

5. The Local Government shall constitute for every leper aslyum appointed under section 3 a Board consisting of not less than three members, one of whom at least shall be a Medical Officer of the Government.

Arrest of pauper lepers.

6. Within any local area which has been notified under section 3 any police-officer may arrest without a warrant any person who appears to him to be a pauper leper.

Person arrested how to be dealt with.

7. Every person arrested under the last foregoing section shall forthwith be taken before an Inspector of Lepers, who,—

(a) if he finds that such person is not a leper within the meaning of section 2, shall give him a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule, whereupon such person shall be immediately released from arrest;

(b) if he finds that such person is a leper within the meaning of section 2, shall give to the police-officer in whose custody the leper is, a certificate in Form B set forth in the schedule, whereupon the leper shall, without unnecessary delay, be taken before a Magistrate having jurisdiction under this Act.

Procedure with regard to pauper lepers.

8. When it appears to any Magistrate authorized in this behalf by the Local Government, upon the certificate in writing, in Form B set forth in the schedule, of an Inspector of Lepers, that any person is a leper, and if it further appears to the Magistrate that the person is a pauper leper, he shall, after recording such further evidence (if any) as he may think fit to require and his order thereon, send the pauper leper in charge of a police-officer, together with an order in Form C set forth in the schedule, to a leper asylum, where such leper shall be detained until discharged by order of the Board constituted for the asylum under section 5.

Practice by leper of certain occupations.

9. Whoever, being a leper, pursues within any local area which has been notified under section 3, any of the following callings or does any of the following acts, namely,—

(b) sells any food, drink or drug intended for human consumption;

(c) bathes at a public well or bathing-place or takes water from any public drinking fountain, well, hydrant, tank or reservoir; or shall be punishable with fine not exceeding fifty rupees:

(d) rides in any public conveyance;

Provided that, when any person is accused of an offence under this section, the Magistrate before whom he is accused, shall cause him to be examined by an Inspector of Lepers and shall not proceed with the case unless such Inspector furnishes a certificate, in Form B set forth in the schedule, in respect of such person.

Conviction after previous conviction.

10. Whenever any leper who has been convicted of an offence punishable under the last foregoing section, is again convicted of any offence punishable under that section, the Magistrate may, in addition to, or in lieu of, any punishment to which such leper may be liable,—

(a) require him to enter into a bond, with one or more sureties, binding him to depart forthwith from the local area notified under section 3 in which he is, and not to enter that or any other local area so notified until an Inspector of Lepers shall have given him a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule; or

(b) may send him in charge of a police-officer, with an order in Form D set forth in the schedule, to a leper asylum, where such leper shall be detained until discharged by order of the Board appointed for the asylum under section 5.

Re-arrest of escaped lepers.

11. Whoever, having been sent to a leper asylum under an order of a Magistrate in Form C or Form D set forth in the schedule, escapes from, or leaves, the asylum without the permission in writing of the Superintendent thereof, may be arrested by any police-officer without a warrant, and upon arrest shall be forthwith taken back to the leper asylum.

Inspection by Board.

12. The Medical Officer and one or more other members of the Board constituted for any leper asylum under section 5 shall, once at least in every quarter, inspect the leper asylum for which such Board is constituted, and shall see and examine, as far as circumstances will permit, every leper detained therein under the provisions of this Act and the order for admission of every leper so detained since the last visit of the Board, and shall enter in a book to be kept for the purpose any remarks which they may deem proper in regard to the management and condition of the asylum and the lepers so detained.

Order of discharge by Board.

13. The Medical Officer and not less than two other members of the Board constitued for any leper asylum under section 5 may at any time, by an order in writing in Form E set forth in the schedule and signed by them, direct the discharge from the leper asylum of any leper detained therein under the provisions of this Act.

Appeals.

14. Any person other than a pauper leper in respect of whom an Inspector of Lepers has issued a certificate, in Form B set forth in the schedule, declaring him to be a leper, or has refused to issue a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule, may appeal to such officer as may be appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, and the decision of such officer shall be final.

Power of the Local Government to make rules.

15. The Local Government may, by notification in the local Gazette, make rules—

(a) for the guidance of all or any of the officers discharging any duty under this Act;

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE expediency of segregating pauper lepers under suitable safeguards and of forbidding lepers generally from following certain trades and callings connected with the bodily requirements of human beings was urged by the Leprosy Commission which visited India six years ago, and since then steps have been taken in some provinces to give effect to the recommendations of the Commission. Last year an Act was passed by the Bengal Council to provide for the arrest, examination and segregation in properly appointed asylums of lepers having no ostensible means of subsistence beyond begging for charity; for enabling local bodies to assist in furnishing funds for the maintenance and medical treatment of pauper lapers so secluded; and for restraining lepers from engaging in certain occupations of the kind already referred to. The present Bill has been prepared on the lines of the Bengal Act, but so as to extend to the whole of India and to apply to any part thereof on, and not before, the issue of a notification by the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, declaring it to be applicable thereto. Where, as in Bengal, adequate provision on the subject has already been made, the proposed Act will not be so applied and the local law will be allowed to continue in force.

With reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 71, dated 7th May 1895, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 334 of 1896) that telegraphic information has been received from Lieutenant and Commander W. RESOLUTION.

JAILS.

Dated Yacht Rhotas, the 10th August 1896.

READ—

Letter No. 6022, dated the 8th June 1896, from the Inspector-General of Jails, submitting the Annual Reports on the Alipore and Hazaribagh Reformatory Schools for the year 1895.

Read also—

The Reports for the years 1894 and 1893, and the orders of Government recorded thereon.

In accordance with the orders conveyed in this office letter No. 225P., dated the 18th January 1896, these reports have been submitted after the Annual Administration Report of the Jail Department was laid before Government, and the tabular statements have been drawn up in the revised forms prescribed. There is still, however, a want of uniformity in the order in which the several subjects are dealt with, which should be remedied.

2. The total number of boys in the two institutions on the 31st December 1894 was 562, of whom 224 were in the Alipore school and 338 at Hazaribagh. The number admitted into the two schools, respectively, during the year was 52 and 67, making a grand total of 681. Of these, 131 boys were released, 1 died and 1 escaped, leaving, at the close of the year 1895, 213 boys at Alipore and 335 at Hazaribagh, or a total of 548, of whom 363 were Hindus, 157 Muhammadans, 21 aboriginals, and 7 Native Christians. The general health of the two schools is reported to have been good, only one death having occurred, against four in the previous year. One escape took place from the outer garden of the Alipore school, but the boy was recaptured, and he and two others who abetted his escape were flogged and the warder at fault punished. No escape occurred from the Hazaribagh school.

3. Offences, punishments and marks.—The total number of offences committed in the Alipore school rose from 55 to 83, and the percentage of boys punished to daily average number of boys rose from 25 to 38. The increase occurred chiefly under the heading "Destroying Government property," but the Superintendent reports that the discipline and behaviour of the boys continued satisfactory. At Hazaribagh the number of offences fell from 336 to 322, of which 149 were of idling. The larger number of offences reported from this school, and the difference in the manner in which they were dealt with, would seem to indicate diversity between the systems of discipline followed in the two institutions. At Hazaribagh no case of solitary confinement occurred during the year, while at Alipore, with only one-fourth as many punishments, solitary confinement was ordered in 16 cases. The mark system is reported to have worked satisfactorily, the average number of boys entitled to marks being 159 at Alipore and 324 at Hazaribagh, against 160 and 228, respectively, in 1894; and the average weekly money earnings amounted to Rs. 5-15-1 at Alipore and Rs 13-11 at Hazaribagh, against Rs. 6-1-1 and Rs. 11-9-1, respectively, in 1894.

4. Instruction and gymnastics.—The boys at both schools were employed on blacksmith's work, tinsmith's work, and carpentry. At Alipore they were also employed in book-binding, printing and cane work, and at Hazaribagh in weaving, tailoring and shoe-making. At both institutions the boys were instructed in Hindustani, Bengali and arithmetic, the more advanced boys being taught English as well. Attendance at the night school has, under the orders contained in the Resolution of last year, been made compulsory instead of optional, as it previously was. The teachers are reported to have attended to their duties carefully in both schools, but the staff at Hazaribagh is said to be inadequate for the number of boys. The Inspector-General should consider this question, and submit proposals, if necessary, to Government. Gymnastics are practised for one hour per diem at Hazaribagh, and the boys are reported to have shown considerable skill in the exercises taught. At Alipore they receive one hour's instruction in gymnastics every alternate day, and are said to take cordially to this part of their training.

5. Character reports of released boys.—The reports received from District Magistrates in regard to 102 of the boys released during the year, show that 55 were well conducted, 24 were not traceable, 7 were in jail, 12 were viewed with suspicion, and 2 were pursuing the trade taught in the school. Five boys released during the two years 1894 and 1895, are reported to be following their own trades, which had been taught them while under detention. As the Superintendent of the Hazaribagh school remarks, it is apparently hopeless to expect that boys belonging to any of the agricultural castes will continue, after release, to follow any of the trades taught to them in the schools.

6. Manufactures.—The same industries were carried on as in the previous year. The total profits from manufactures rose from Rs. 16,640 to Rs. 16,679, of which Rs. 12,763 were made in the Alipore school and Rs. 3,916 at Hazaribagh. The larger profits at Alipore are due to the earnings from book-binding and carpentry, the two chief industries taught. At Hazaribagh the greater portion of the profits accrued from blanket-weaving. The average earning per head at Alipore was Rs. 64-2-2, and at Hazaribagh Rs. 17-7-6.

7. Expenditure.—The following table compares the expenditure under the several heads in the two schools during the past two years :—

* Including travelling allowance.

In the case of each school there has been a slight reduction both in total cost and in cost per head. It is desirable, as suggested by the Superintendent of the Hazaribagh school, to follow the practice in the corresponding jail return, and place the item of construction and repairs below the total in this return. That item is casual and subject to great fluctuation, and does not properly enter into the calculation of the cost of the schools per head of population.

8. General.—At Alipore the printing industry is said to keep two presses constantly at work, and two more have been indented for. Sir Alexander Mackenzie is satisfied, after personal inspection of the school, that further accommodation is required for the workshop, and instructions have accordingly been issued to the Public Works Department to add a second story to one of the workshops. As yet no boy has been received from Assam at Hazaribagh, and the Superintendent thinks, in consequence, that the necessity for providing increased accommodation at that institution is not urgent. The daily average population during the year (544), however, was the highest on record, and as the school will, at present, only admit of the reception of 357 boys, it may soon become necessary to enlarge the building. Both institutions appear to have been sufficiently inspected by official and non-official visitors during the year.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with pleasure the general interest taken by the Board of Management and the Committee of Visitors in the two institutions, and the good work done by Mr. Hill, Deputy Superintendent of the Hazaribagh School. The Government heard with regret of the death of Mr. C. J. Courtenay since the close of the year. The Alipore School had in him a most efficient Superintendent.

Order.—Ordered that a copy of the Reports and a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the President of the Board of Management of the Reformatory School at Alipore, for information and for communication to the members of the Board.

Ordered also that a copy of the Reports and a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Jails, for information, and for communication to the Superintendent of the Hazaribagh Reformatory School.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

Calcutta, the 11th August 1896.

READ the following papers :—

(1) A letter, dated the 5th July 1895, from Babu Ram Lal Mukerji, offering to place a sum of Rs. 50,000 at the disposal of this Government for the relief of distress caused by inundation or scarcity.

(2) This Government's letter No. 3615, dated the 29th July 1895, accepting the above offer.

(3) Letters, dated 12th September and 17th October 1895, from Babu Ram La-Mukerji, forwarding to Government the lower and upper halves of a Governl ment Promissory Note for Rs. 50,000.

(4) Preliminary and final Notifications dated 27th January and 11th August 1896, respectively, under the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890.

In July 1895, Babu Ram Lal Mukerji, zamindar of Boinchee in the district of Hooghly, offered to place at the disposal of the Government of Bengal a sum of Rs. 50,000 with a view to creating an endowment for the relief of distress due to inundation or to scarcity brought on by drought, in any part of this Province, including Bihar, Chota Nagpur and Orissa. The Lieutenant-Governor accepted the offer with much pleasure. Babu Ram Lal Mukerji has transferred a 3½ per cent. Government Promissory Note, No. 053,858 of 1865, for Rs. 50,000, to the Accountant-General, Bengal, as Treasurer of Charitable Endowments in Bengal; and, with his concurrence, a preliminary Notification (No. 433L.R., dated the 27th January 1896) under Act VI of 1890, with a scheme for the administration of the Fund, was published in the Calcutta Gazette, of the 29th idem. The Commissioner of Burdwan, having reported that no objection to the scheme was made in any of the districts of that Division within the period fixed by that notification for receiving such objections, a final notification vesting the endowment in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments in Bengal will be published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 12th August 1896. The Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Revenue Department has been appointed Administrator of the Fund.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank Babu Ram Lal Mukerji for his liberality and public spirit, and directs that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to him, and that it be also published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Further report from Noakhali shows that the state of things in the island of Sandip is better than was anticipated, and what little distress has occurred there is being met. The floods in Orissa are subsiding. The damage to crops is not yet known, but most of the early rice, it is reported, has probably been destroyed.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·6° higher; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers.

2. Vessels for the purposes of measurement of tonnage shall be divided into two classes as below :—

Class I.—To include all steamers, flats and barges, and such other square-built boats as should, in the opinion of the Supervisor, be included.

Class II.—To include all vessels of the usual native types of build.

The net tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of Act V (B.C.) of 1864 and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

Class II :—

A.—The product of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern, measured along the water-line, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the water-line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

B.—The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches; the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth.

C.—In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 12½ maunds is to be omitted. In the case of boats exceeding 500 maunds by measurement, any fraction of 100 maunds, less than 50 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 50 maunds, is to be charged as 50 maunds only.

D.—Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore and Chetla empty, for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion, as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement.

Class I :—

For Class I the tonnage, as obtained by the system of measurement for Class II, shall be increased by one-half. For vessels above 5,000 maunds measurement of this class, any fraction of 1,000 maunds, less than 500 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 500 maunds, to be charged as 500 maunds only. In the case of steamers, the tonnage determined as above shall be reduced by one-third as an allowance for engine space.

For approved Firms constantly engaged in traffic, the way-bills on board a vessel of Class I, certified to shew the total actual weight of cargo carried, will be accepted as the basis for assessment of tolls.

The Hon'ble Mr. A. H. Wallis took his seat in Council.

MAINTENANCE OF ROADS OUT OF PROVINCIAL REVENUES.

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley said:—"The Council will remember that at the Meeting of the 11th July last, the following question was asked by the Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen:—

'Will the Government be pleased to state how many miles of roads, metalled and unmetalled, existed in each district, the maintenance of which was a charge on the Provincial Revenues when the Road Cess Act came into operation, and how many miles of these roads, metalled and unmetalled, are now maintained out of the Provincial Revenues?'

"I said at the time that owing to the form in which the accounts relating to these roads were kept by the Public Works Department, the statistics required by the reply to the question were still incomplete.

"I now lay on the table three statements, A, B and C, furnishing as full particulars as can be gathered from the books maintained by the Public Works Department. Before the introduction of the Road Cess the distinction now recognised between Provincial and District roads did not exist. Roads were classified as Imperial or Local, the former being maintained as a rule from Imperial Revenues, and the latter as a rule from the Amalgamated District Road Fund, which consisted of the net balances remaining after meeting the first charges on a number of separate funds, mostly of a local character, supplemented by contributions from the one per cent. Income-tax Fund and from Imperial Revenues. Shortly after the passing of the Road Cess Act, Sir George Campbell issued the following order:—

'In introducing the new system of local taxation under the Road Cess Act, the Lieutenant-Governor desires to act with the utmost liberality towards local interests. For many years past all the local road and ferry toll collections have been brought into one Central Road Fund, and distributed at the pleasure of Government. The Lieutenant-Governor has determined that this system shall now cease, and that all the sums collected from local roads and canals, and from all ferries, except those on roads maintained from the general revenues, shall be made over to the districts and municipalities in whose limits the lines of communication lie. The main lines of arterial communication, both roads and canals, will be maintained from Provincial Funds, and the collections from them will be credited to the Provincial treasury; all others will be made over to the District Fund, receipts and expenditure together.

The Lieutenant-Governor does not propose to make any further allotments from general sources to the rich and populous districts, which may be considered quite capable of paying their own way. Anything that can be spared from Provincial needs will rather be given in aid of poor districts which have suffered from peculiar difficulties of communication.'

"In January, 1872, detailed effect was given to the principle thus laid down. The main lines of road shown in Statement A, in length 1,764¾ miles, were classified as Provincial roads, and at the same time the Calcutta Canals, the Nadia rivers and the Backergunge Canals were made a Provincial charge. Of the small local roads entered in Statement B, comprising in all 981 miles, 79½ miles were transferred to Railways and Municipalities, and 901½ miles, costing about Rs. 84,173 a year, were made over to District Road Committees to be maintained from the Road Cess and from the proceeds of ferries on district roads. Grants-in-aid amounting to Rs. 4,98,238, besides the balance of the assignments for 1871-72, aggregating Rs. 2,08,720, were also given for the year 1872-73, in order to enable the Committees to carry on work on these and the local roads then existing until their income from Road Cess began to come in. Since then the 734 miles of road, referred to in Statement C, have been made over to Local Authorities, with the grants entered in column 6 of the Statement.

The only case in which a portion of a Provincial road has been transferred to a Local Authority without a corresponding grant occurred in 1879, when 18 miles of the Grand Trunk Road from Dhobi to Gaya were made over to the Road Cess Committee of that district."

RATHJATRA CEREMONY.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

Is it true, as stated in the Hitabadi newspaper of the 26th June, that the Magistrate of Midnapore has interfered with the Rathjatra ceremony by imposing a fee varying from Rs. 4 to Rs. 16 on every Rath or holy car? Is the Government aware that there are poor people who do not spend more than six or seven rupees per annum in all upon performing this religious ceremony, and that it will be a great hardship to them if they are not allowed to perform this ceremony without paying such a heavy annual fee? Will the Government kindly state what steps, if any, it intends to take in this matter?

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley replied:—

"The facts of the case are these:—It is the duty of the Magistrates to see that Rath processions are so conducted as not to endanger life. Accordingly the Magistrate of Midnapore issued in 1885 an order on the owners of a considerable number of large cars requiring them, before using the cars, to obtain a certificate of soundness of the woodwork and ropes from a Public Works or District Road Committee's officer not under the rank of a Sub-Overseer. This system of examination has been in force ever since without objection. This year it was pointed out to the Magistrate by the District Engineer that the examination of these cars was not part of the ordinary duties of the officers of the District Board, and that a fee varying according to the distance to be travelled from the head-quarters should be allowed. Recognizing the fairness of this claim, the Magistrate fixed a fee of from Rs. 4 to Rs. 16. It appears that 41 applications for examination were received, in only 23 of which fees were charged. The Magistrate reports that whatever objections were made either on the ground of the cars being too small to require examination, or of the owner being too poor to pay the fee, were fully considered, and that in only one case has he since learnt that the owner was not fully able to pay.

"The Hon'ble Member can see the Magistrate's report if he desires to peruse it."

Mr. WHEELER'S CASE.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

With reference to the reply given at the meeting of the Council on the 18th July last in answer to my question regarding the Magistrate of Saran, the Hon'ble Mr. Risley stated that "the Officiating Collector of Saran finding on reviewing the Excise Returns that breaches of the Law were not being adequately dealt with, 'drew the attention of the Deputy Magistrate to the question of the amount of punishment in Excise cases,' and remarked that 'the general tendency is to be far too lenient, especially in tari cases.'"

I have now to ask:—

(a) Whether the remarks were made on the Excise Returns alluded to, or whether a separate Circular was issued to all Deputy Magistrates?

(b) Whether Mr. Wheeler did not issue instructions to inflict "exemplary punishment" in these cases? and (c) Whether the Government will be pleased to lay a copy of Mr. Wheeler's remarks in this connection on the table?

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY replied:—

"Mr. Wheeler's remarks were based on the Excise Returns, and were embodied in the following Circular order:—

'The attention of all Deputy Magistrates is drawn to the question of the amount of punishments in excise cases. The general tendency is to be far too lenient, especially in tari cases. I know it will be argued that the accused are poor labourers and cannot pay more; but such persons are often acting for others, and there appears a tendency to push the argument to excess.

'It should be remembered that for every excise case detected there are numbers that are not, and when detection is successful, punishment should be more exemplary.'

"The principle that offences against the revenue should be visited with deterrent punishment is one which is recognised in all civilised countries, and has been repeatedly affirmed by the Government of India."

TEXT-BOOKS IN GOVERNMENT EXAMINATIONS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

With reference to the reply given at the meeting of the Council on the 11th July last in answer to my question regarding the text-books prescribed for the different examinations and other cognate matters, the Hon'ble Mr. Finucane stated, among other things, that as regards those examinations which are under the Lieutenant-Governor's control, "the books are read during a two years' course; and in so far as they are fixed by the Department, they are changed either wholly or partially from year to year, so as to encourage meritorious authors and text-books and to avoid anything like a monopoly." I have now to ask whether it is not the case that—

(a) A book on Hygiene, written by the Secretary of the Text-book Committee, who is a high Government official, has been in use as the text-book in Bengali for the Middle Vernacular Examination for more than twenty-five years?

(b) Another book, a History of Bengal written in the Bengali language, has been in use for nearly twenty years for the Upper Primary Examination?

Whether the Government, in view of the fact that the books referred to in the first part of the question have so long been in use against the declared policy of the Government not to encourage monopolies, will consider the propriety of substituting other books for them?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"In the statement laid upon the table in connection with my reply to the Hon'ble Member's question on the same subject put on the 11th July, the two books referred to in his present question were specified as permanent text-books. My observations that certain books were changed from year to year by the Department did not apply to these or to other text-books, in subjects other than Bengali literature, which are described as permanent in the statement.

"With regard to the two books named in the question—

(a) The book on Hygiene (Swasthy Raksha, by Rai Radhika Prasanna Mukherjee Bahadur, Inspector of Schools, Presidency Circle,) has been prescribed as a text-book in that subject (not in Bengali literature, as the question seems to imply) for the Middle Scholarship Examination since 1880, and was in use in schools before that date.

(b) The History of Bengal, in Bengali, by the late Babu Rajkrishna Mukherjee, has been on the authorized list since 1875. For many years it was the only text-book approved by the Text-book Committee in that subject for the Upper Primary Standard, and consequently it was in general use, though not authoritatively prescribed. In the orders of Government No. 267, dated the 23rd January, 1894, it was for the first time prescribed as a text-book for the Upper Primary Examination.

"The Director of Public Instruction has already decided to remove from the permanent list the second of the two books named in the question, which is now to stand on an equal footing with the three other books on the same subject approved by the Central Text-book Committee, two of which, however, cover only a part of the course in History prescribed for the Upper Primary Standard.

"The first book named in the question has been selected as a permanent text-book on the recommendation of the Central Text-book Committee, who were requested by the Director of Public Instruction in December, 1894, at the instance of Government, to examine all the approved text-books on Hygiene and recommend one for permanent use. They reported unanimously in favour of Swasthya Raksha, by Rai Radhika Prasanna Mookerjea Bahadur. In conformity with their recommendation, the book, which had been in authorised use since 1880, in combination with the text-book prescribed by the Government of India, was again prescribed as the single text-book in the subject of Hygiene for the Middle Scholarship standard. The Lieutenant-Governor would have no objection to re-considering this question with the view of ascertaining whether it is now desirable to substitute another text-book in that subject, but in the first place there is no other text-book in Hygiene for that standard approved by the Text-book Committee, and in the second place, the whole question of the course in science, including Sanitation, for Upper Primary and Middle schools is shortly to be taken into separate consideration."

COLLECTION CHARGES OF ROAD AND PUBLIC WORKS CESSES.

The Hon'ble Mr. A. M. Bose asked—

(a) Will the Government state the principle on which the amount of Rs. 44,500 was fixed in 1879, as collection charges on account of the Public Works Cess; and the total amount of collection on account of Road Cess and on account of Public Works Cess, as well the charges for collection for the two Cesses together, in the year 1879 and at the present time? Had the Government to incur any additional cost, on the imposition of the Road Cess, for the superior establishment concerned in the supervision and control of the collection of that Cess, and if so, how much?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to consider the propriety of placing the proportion between the collection charges for the two Cesses on a fairer basis than would appear to obtain at present, when the amount which is paid from the Provincial Revenues for collecting the Public Works Cess is less than one-fifth of that paid by the District Boards for collecting the Road Cess, the total amount of which is rather less than that of the Public Works Cess?

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY replied:—

"(a) The principle on which the sum of Rs. 44,500 was fixed in 1879 was explained in my reply of the 11th July last, and is more fully set out in the following extract, paragraph 20 of Board's letter No. 498A of 18th July, 1878, and paragraph 2 of Government Order No. 2, dated 31st January, 1879:—

'20. It is evident from the reports and communications which the Board have received that most, if not all, District Road Cess Committees anticipate that Government will contribute from the Provincial Revenues half the cost of the establishments maintained for the collection of the two cesses. The Board are well aware that there are strong arguments that may be brought forward against this claim; but as the Road Cess establishments are required by the authority of Government to collect the Public Works Cess, and as even the semblance of illiberality in dealing with the local bodies which Government calls into existence to share in the work of local administration is to be deprecated, the Board would strongly advocate the dealing with this claim in a liberal spirit, and satisfying it so far as it is reasonable. Viewed in this light, its great defect is that it takes no account of the great assistance which Government already gives to the Road Cess establishments. In making the valuations the salary of the Deputy Collector, whose whole time was generally devoted to this work, was entirely borne by Government. At the present moment a portion of the time of a Deputy Collector —a very large portion in some districts—is taken up with Road Cess work, to which has to be added a portion of the time of the Collector, the Commissioner, and the Board. It would be difficult to estimate what this amounts to with any accuracy, but it is very improbable that it would come to less than one-third of the establishment employed in collections, omitting of course the clerks and accountants of the District Board's office. If therefore the Government agree to accept the principle that the total cost, including the time of superior officers, should be shared between the two cesses, and do not require any more accurate estimate, the Board would advocate that in future the joint establishment for collection purposes should be borne two-thirds by the Road Cess Committee and one-third by the Provincial Revenues; this arrangement to take effect from the beginning of the Road Cess year 1878-79.'

'2. In reply, I am to say that the Lieutenant-Governor accepts the general principle of the proposal made in paragraph 20 of your letter No. 498A, dated 18th July last, viz., that one-third of the total cost of the joint establishments be borne by the Provincial Revenues and two-thirds by the Road Cess Committees; but instead of dividing the cost of the establishment every year, and paying a certain proportion to the Road Cess Funds, the Lieutenant-Governor would prefer to allot a fixed sum yearly from Provincial Revenues for each district, and thus obviate the necessity for calculating afresh every year the amount payable by Government.'

"In 1879-80 the collections on account of Road Cess amounted to Rs. 32,85,511, and on account of Public Works Cess to Rs. 35,66,947. In 1894-95 the receipts from Road Cess were Rs. 40,91,522, and from Public Works Cess Rs. 41,77,224. The charges for collecting the two Cesses were in 1879-80 Rs. 1,61,041, and are now Rs. 2,87,186. The additional cost incurred when the Road Cess was imposed for the superior establishment concerned in supervision and control cannot be stated without special enquiry which the Lieutenant-Governor does not propose to undertake.

"(b) The question of revising the existing arrangement will be considered in connection with the approaching revision of the Provincial Contract."

MARKS IN LOWER PRIMARY EXAMINATION.

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE asked—

Is the Government aware that the regulations prescribed for the Lower Primary Examination are much more stringent than those for the other examinations, inasmuch as in order to pass it (1) a student must obtain a minimum of 40 per cent. of the aggregate (except in Bihar, where the minimum is 33 per cent.), while the corresponding minimum needed for passing the Upper Primary, the Middle Vernacular and the Middle English Examinations is only 25 per cent.; (2) he must obtain 25 per cent. in every subject or group of subjects in which he is examined, while for the Upper Primary, the Middle Vernacular and the Middle English Examinations, he has to keep 25 per cent. in only some of the subjects of the examination, no minimum being required in the other subjects?

Will the Government be pleased to reduce the burden on candidates of tender years who appear at the Lower Primary Examination by making its rules uniform with those for the higher examinations in the directions indicated above?

Will the Government also consider the propriety of removing subjects like (1) Mensuration of lines and plane surfaces, (2) Sanitary Primer, from the course of the Lower Primary Examination, confining it to Reading, Writing and Arithmetic, specially as Arithmetic in that Examination is a comprehensive subject comprising the fourfold division of (1) European Arithmetic (75 marks), (2) Native Arithmetic or Subhankari (75 marks), (3) Mental Arithmetic, European and Native (50 marks), (4) zamindari accounts (50 marks)?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"The facts are as stated in the question. A higher pass mark is required at the Lower Primary Examination, because that examination is chiefly confined to the elementary subjects of reading, writing and arithmetic. Much of it is also conducted vivâ voce, which is a form of examination more favourable to candidates. That the standard is not unduly high is shown by a comparison of the results of that examination with those of the two next above it. At the Lower Primary Examination of 1895, 54 per cent. of the candidates passed, at the Upper Primary Examination 47 per cent., and at the Middle Vernacular Examination 59 per cent.

"With the exception of the Sanitary Primer, which has been introduced under explicit orders from the Government of India on account of its special importance to the rural population, all the other subjects of the Lower Primary standard form part of the traditional subjects of the old pathsala course. That course included the mensuration of lines and plane surfaces after indigenous methods, as the present course does. It is a subject of special value to agricultural pupils. In the opinion of the Government this and all other traditional subjects of the course should be retained."

"SANITATION" A SUBJECT OF STUDY.

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE asked—

Is there any reason for including Sanitation as a subject of study in every one of the Departmental examinations, namely the Lower Primary, the Upper Primary, the Middle Vernacular and the Middle English Examinations?

Is there at any rate ground for including two books on Sanitation in the Upper Primary Course? Will the Government consider the propriety of removing at least one of these two different works dealing with the same subjects?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"As stated in the answer to the previous question, the orders of the Government of India require that Sanitation shall form part of the course in Primary and Middle schools of every grade.

"In the Upper Primary standard, the 'Way to Health' is the text-book prescribed by the Government of India for all Provinces. The second text-book has been introduced as having special applicability to the circumstances of Bengal, in which the former is necessarily deficient."

PHYSICAL SCIENCE IN UPPER PRIMARY EXAMINATION.

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE asked—

Is it the fact that the subject of Physical Science, which is prescribed in the alternative for the Upper Primary Examination, is defined neither by syllabus nor by the naming of a text book? Will the Government be pleased to remove the inconvenience caused both to the teachers and the taught by this want of definition.

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"Though the course in Physics for the Upper Primary standard is not defined, the authorised list of text-books for that standard includes seven books in Physics, any one of which may be selected by managers of schools. The questions are so set that they can be answered from any one of these text-books."

NON-PROVISION OF APPARATUS FOR MIDDLE AND UPPER PRIMARY SCHOOLS.

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE asked—

Is the Government aware of the fact that almost without exception Middle schools and Upper Primary schools are wholly unprovided with apparatus or appliances for showing any experiments in connection with the teaching of Physics, and, as a matter of fact, the subject is taught without the help of experiments? Does it consider it any advantage to have that subject included in the curriculum for the Middle Vernacular and the Upper Primary Examinations under these circumstances? Would not such teaching be rather a useless burdening of the memory and likely to create a distaste for the subject?

Is it not the fact that in the course prescribed by the University the subject of Physics is introduced at a much later stage of a student's progress?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"Elementary scientific teaching has always formed part of the Middle and Upper Primary standards, in accordance with accepted views as to the utility of that subject of instruction. It would be impossible to require the 6,000 schools of these classes in Bengal to provide themselves with apparatus, even of a simple character. Proposals are now under consideration for introducing a graduated course for Primary and Middle schools, to include —besides elementary notion of Physics—Natural History, Sanitation and Agriculture, illustrated as far as possible by object lessons.

"Science is introduced into Middle and Upper Primary schools, because the great majority of the pupils attending those schools complete their education at the Middle standard. In the University course elementary science forms part of the Matriculation standard, but the definite study of physics and chemistry is postponed to the First Arts stage, to which the great majority of matriculated students proceed."

UPPER PRIMARY EXAMINATION.

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE asked—

Is it the fact that a student may appear at the Middle Vernacular Scholarship Examination without previously passing either the Upper Primary or the Lower Primary Examination?

Is it also the fact that in the same way students have hitherto been allowed to appear in the Upper Primary Scholarship Examination without previously passing the Lower Primary test, but by a recent Circular (18—19 of 1894) this privilege has been withdrawn in the case of the Upper Primary Examination, no one being permitted to appear in it unless he has passed the Lower Primary standard? When does this change come into operation?

Will the Government be pleased to consider the desirability of continuing the present practice and not adding to the number of examinations in which a candidate for the Upper Primary Examination must appear?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"The facts are as stated in the question. The Circular referred to was issued in 1894 in conformity with the opinion of inspecting officers, who were practically unanimous in favour of requiring every boy of the third class of an Upper Primary school to appear at and to pass the Lower Primary Examination as a condition of promotion to the second class, and of subsequent admission to the Upper Primary scholarship examination. An Upper Primary school is merely a development of a Lower Primary school, and was always intended to teach the full Lower Primary course at the corresponding stage. It was found that some Upper Primary schools neglected these useful subjects of instruction, which do not form part of the Upper Primary standard. The order in question was intended to restore these schools to their original constitution, and to keep them as genuine Primary schools, rather than as mutilated Middle schools in which the interests of the agricultural population would be neglected. To make the passing of the Lower Primary standard a condition of eligibility for the Upper Primary scholarship is also in conformity with Sir George Campbell's intention, in framing a chain of scholarships by which the gifted son of a raiyat might be enabled to pass on to the highest University degree."

REFERENCES OF COURSES TO EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE.

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE asked—

Is the Government aware of the feeling of dissatisfaction which has found expression in the Press as well as in public gatherings (e.g., the Provincial Conference recently held at Kishnagar) against the burdensome character of the courses of study prescribed at present, to the detriment, intellectual as well as physical, of the rising generation?

Will it be pleased to refer such courses, so far as the examinations conducted by the Government are concerned, for the consideration of a Conference such as recommended by the Education Commission, at which both official and non-official opinion may be adequately represented?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"In reference to the first part of the question, I beg to refer the Hon'ble Member to the reply given to the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee at the meeting of the Council held on the 11th July, 1896.

"In reference to the second part, the Lieutenant-Governor will, as intimated in reply to a question by the Hon'ble Member at the meeting of the Council held on the 28th March, 1896, be prepared to summon a Conference to consider educational questions of importance, whenever the need for such a Conference presents itself.

"The Lieutenant-Governor is not aware of any facts to warrant the statement that the course of studies prescribed has been, or is, to the detriment, intellectual or physical, of the rising generation. The Director of Public Instruction will, however, be consulted on the point. His Honour's attention has been separately called to the unnecessary expense that may be entailed on the poorer classes by frequent changes of text-books—changes which were originally intended to encourage the growth of healthy competition among authors,—and he thinks that it may be a question worthy of consideration whether the attainment of that object is worth the extra expense entailed on the poorer classes by frequent change of text-books. For this reason the Director of Public Instruction will be invited to re-consider the matter and report thereon for the orders of Government."

QUALIFICATIONS FOR VOTING AT MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN asked—

Will the Government be pleased to state whether, on the passing of the Bill to further amend the Municipal Act, III of 1884 (B.C.), at present before the Council, in its present form, Government intends to confer, by rule, the right of voting at elections of Municipal Commissioners to all males who have been resident within the limits of a municipality for 12 months immediately preceding the date of election, and who have attained the age of 21 years, and—

(a) have paid during the municipal year immediately preceding the election an aggregate amount of not less than Re. 1-8 in all municipalities excepting Howrah, in respect of any of the rates or taxes imposed by the Act :

(b) have paid not less than Rs. 20 as rent in respect of the occupation by them of a holding which is assessed with the rate under section 85, clause (b):

(c) have paid fees for the registration of carts under section 143 of the Act.

DISENFRANCHISEMENT OF VOTERS AT MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN asked—

Have not all these classes of persons, (a), (b), (c), enjoyed the right of voting at elections of Municipal Commissioners for the last 12 years, and if all or any of these classes, are to be disenfranchised, will the Government be pleased to state what is their number, and why the right shall now be withheld from them?

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY replied :—

"The amendment of the election rules, which was rendered necessary by the passing of Bengal Act IV of 1894, is now under consideration. A revised draft of the rules has been circulated for opinion, and will be taken into consideration when the Bill to amend the Municipal Act has become law. The rules as now drafted leave the existing franchise untouched, except in Kurseong, where it is proposed to raise the qualification under section 15 (1) to Rs. 3. Several of the more advanced Municipalities have asked for a similar change, and their representations will be considered. The case of fees for the registration of carts is governed by the definition of 'rates' in section 15 of the Act, and is not affected by the rules."

PURCHASE OF SONEPORE FAIR LAND.

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN asked—

Whether or not the District Board of Saran have, by a supplementary budget for the year 1895-96, sanctioned an expenditure of Rs. 36,068 for the purchase of that portion of the lands of Sonepore, in district Saran, which is yearly occupied, according to a letter of the Commissioner of the Patna Division, dated 1st December, 1894, published in the newspapers, "by the camps of the native gentry and European visitors" during the annual fair at Sonepore, and with respect to which the Hon'ble Mr. Risley, in his letter to the Commissioner, dated 16th July, 1895, also published in the newspapers, said "considering the immense demands on the funds of a District Board for roads, schools, hospitals, drainage, water-supply, &c., the Lieutenant-Governor hesitates to sanction such an expenditure on an object which is not of pressing importance, and which is mostly for the use of European visitors, and which benefits them only for a fortnight in each year"?

Whether the sanction of the District Board was not only provisional and subject, under Rule 40, Part IX of the rules passed by Government under section 138 of Act III of 1885 (B.C.), to the confirmation and approval of the Local Government, and whether the Local Government did confirm and approve of the provisional sanction of the District Board for this expenditure?

CURTAILMENT OF EXPENDITURE ON ROADS.

The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen asked—

Whether on account of this expenditure, necessary expenditure on roads previously sanctioned has not been curtailed? And whether, on this account, the metalling and repairs of an important road from Siwan to Gopalganj sub-division could not be undertaken during the year?

APPLICATION OF SECTION 100 TO PURCHASE OF LAND FOR SONEPORE FAIR.

The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen asked—

Whether under clause 3, section 100, head Miscellaneous, under which District Boards are empowered "to hold within their district, from time to time, fairs and exhibitions of cattle, &c., and incur expenditure with the approval of the Commissioner," apply to acquisition of lands, as the Hon'ble Mr. Risley, in his letter quoted above, says "mostly for the use of the European visitors and which benefits them for a fortnight in each year" in such an old and well-established fair as the one held at Sonepore?

DATE OF NOTE BY MAGISTRATE OF SARAN.

The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen asked—

The letter of Mr. Forbes, Commissioner of the Division, referred to above, states:—"The desirability of the retention of the site in question in the hands of the District Board is set forth in the accompanying copy of a note on the subject by yourself when Magistrate-Collector of the District of Saran, with which I need scarcely say that I entirely agree." Was this note drawn up after the sanction of the District Board was obtained, or before?

PROPOSED LIQUIDATION OF DEBTS PRIOR TO PURCHASE OF SONEPORE FAIR LAND.

The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen asked—

Whether or not a member of the District Board, at the meeting when this amount was sanctioned by the District Board provisionally under the rules, did propose an amendment to the effect that the expenditure on the purchase of the Sonepore lands be postponed until the District Board debts were paid off? Was this proposal also submitted to Government? Did the Government enquire whether there was such debts owing by the District Board?

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley replied:—

"Replies to the questions will be given hereafter when the result of certain enquiries now being made is known."

BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT, 1884, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to further amend the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, be taken into consideration in view to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY also moved that the clauses of the Bill be considered in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said:—"The Report of the Select Committee, as well as the Bill as it comes from the hands of the Select Committee, contains a provision for taxing musical processions, or rather, as it is called, music in the streets."

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY, interposing, said:—"It is usual to take the amendments in the order in which they are set down in the agenda of business."

The Hon'ble MR. DAS continued:—"I am not now moving an amendment. I am objecting to a portion of the Report of the Select Committee being taken into consideration by the Council. My objection amounts to a point of order. I shall presently explain myself. This provision to tax music in the streets was not in the Bill when it was introduced on the 28th March, 1896. Then the Bill was referred to a Select Committee, and the opinions of public bodies were invited upon its provisions. Subsequently two Government Circulars were issued, one of which was directed to Commissioners of Divisions and the other to certain public bodies—certain Associations—inviting their opinion upon certain points, one of which was a proposal to tax musical processions."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"Do you not think it will be more in order to make your remarks when you come to move your amendment with regard to the particular section of the Bill relating to musical processions? I think the work of the Council will be advanced by proceeding in the order in which the amendments are mentioned in the agenda list."

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said:—"If the President rules that I am out of order, I bow to his decision. My objection is that that part of the Select Committee's report is not in order and cannot properly be considered by the Council."

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY said:—"The motion now before the Council is purely a formal one which brings the whole subject of the Bill into consideration. What my hon'ble friend now proposes is to negative a section of the Bill which introduces the provision to which he objects. The proper time for these remarks is, I submit, when his amendment to that provision of the Bill comes on for consideration."

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said:—"I am not now going to move an amendment. I say that that portion of the Select Committee's report is altogether ultra vires. It was not in the Bill which was referred to the Select Committee, and it was not competent to them to report upon a subject not in the Bill. By this provision a new tax is imposed. The Rules of the Council distinctly say that no Bill can be introduced unless by leave of the Council first obtained."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I think it will be open to you or to any other Hon'ble Member to move that the section of the Bill relating to this tax shall not be passed, but I think you are distinctly out of order in raising that question now. We will therefore now proceed with the business according to the order in which the amendments appear on the list."

The Motion was then put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA BAHADUR moved that the following additional proviso to paragraph 2 of section 14 of the Bengal Municipal Act, III of 1884, be inserted :—

"Provided further that the Commissioners to be appointed by the Local Government shall be male persons residing or paying rates in the municipality who have attained the age of twenty-one years."

He said :—"I find that an amendment to introduce substantially the same provision in section 15 of the Bill has been put on the business list by the Hon'ble Mr. Bose. I thought such a proviso ought to come properly under section 14, but I leave it to the Council to adopt the amendment either under the one or the other section. In moving this proviso I shall not detain the Council with any lengthy remarks. The principle which I advocate is one that has been recognised in section 15 in respect of the election of representative Commissioners. I submit that people who live in the midst of a municipality or who pay certain rates have a subsisting interest in the administration of municipal matters, and they are more likely to take an intelligent interest in the determination of municipal questions than persons who have no stake. Under the section as it stands—I mean section 14—the Local Government can appoint a minor to be a Municipal Commissioner. A minor is incapable of entering into contracts, but there is no restriction of any sort here provided, so that even a female is not disqualified under this section, and even persons resident outside municipal limits can be appointed. I submit that the Council will not question the principle which I advocate. I advocate nothing more than this—that the same qualifications which are necessary for the election of candidates should be made applicable to the appointment of Commissioners by the Government. I do not mean to say that the Government will exercise its discretion capriciously or whimsically or arbitrarily, but what I do contend for is this, that an executive Act is different from a statutory provision, and that when the Council is amending the law, advantage should be taken to introduce in the Act provisions in respect of appointment, similar to those which have been introduced in respect of the election of candidates. The principle for which I contend is not a new one. It has been adopted in the Calcutta Municipal Act in which similar provision has been made for the appointment by Government of Municipal Commissioners, and if restrictions as to age and sex and the fact of residence and the payment of certain rates are imposed in a place like Calcutta, I think this provision should with greater strictness be adopted in the Mufassal Municipal Act; and I contend that this is a proper opportunity to introduce such a principle here."

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE said :—"I will accept the result of the discussion on the motion which has just been made as conclusive in respect of the amendment of a similar character of which I have given notice in reference to section 15."

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY said :—"My first objection to the amendment is that it comes too late. At any time within the last twelve years, since 1884—and certainly at any time within the last four years, since 1892, when the Municipal Act came under amendment and was carefully considered—during the whole of that time it was possible for such an amendment to be brought forward. Had the Hon'ble Member even made this proposal in April last, when the Bill was referred to a Select Committee, this question would have been submitted to the District Officers and Municipalities and to various other public bodies, and the Council would have had the benefit of opinions which would have enabled the Members to come to a decision on the merits of the subject. No doubt the Hon'ble Member is aware that this idea has only recently been brought forward. It arose from an individual case, and I think I can myself pretty closely fix the origin of it. A gentleman of the legal profession, who is interested in a Municipality near Calcutta, pressed me very strongly to move this identical amendment. I then declined to do so precisely for the reason I have now given, namely, that it is out of time. The Select Committee had submitted its report, and the subject could not now be properly considered,

In the course of the discussion I had with that gentleman, he made it extremely clear that his reason for wishing for this amendment was intimately connected with his desire to exclude a particular individual from being appointed a Commissioner of a certain Municipality. He explained that this gentleman had been nominated because he was somebody's cousin, and that that should not be tolerated. I submit that an amendment which is clearly connected with a purely personal question is primâ facie to be regarded with some degree of suspicion.

"Furthermore, on the merits of the question there is this to be said. The Municipal Act of 1876 contained a provision substantially identical with that now proposed. That Act provided that 'no person who is not an owner or occupier of land in the Municipality shall be appointed or elected a Commissioner in such Municipality.' Before we proceed to take any action in this matter, I think it is desirable to ascertain why the Select Committee of the Council, which considered the Bill which was passed in 1884, when the enthusiasm for the principle of Local Self-Government was in full flush, thought proper to strike out the provision on this subject which was contained in the Act of 1876. The provision in question was a conspicuous one, and the presumption is that they struck it out advisedly, and that it was not a mere mistake in drafting.

"However, apart from this, there are objections on the merits of the question. Is it in the least likely that the Government will appoint a school-boy to be a Municipal Commissioner, and as to the age of 21 years, no particular virtue attaches to it, because in point of fact, by the Indian Majority Act, IX of 1876, the age of majority, except in certain special cases, is fixed at 18. Then as to the question of residence, I can conceive a case—and I believe most Hon'ble Members can conceive similar cases—in which the effect of the proposed restriction would deprive the Municipality of certain very able members. I believe that to be the case; but unfortunately, owing to the want of time, I have not been able to make further enquiries on the point; but I believe that the best work done in the petty municipalities around Calcutta has been done by people who live in residential houses in Calcutta, but who are nominated by the Government to work in those municipalities simply by reason of their special aptitude for the work, and it would be a great misfortune to those municipalities if such persons were excluded from nomination by the Government. As for the question of limiting the provision which confers upon Government the right of nomination to persons of the male sex, such things move very slowly; but are both the Hon'ble Members who are interested in this amendment certain that at no distant date educated native ladies may not claim a privilege which has actually been conferred on members of their sex in England?"

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"I agree with the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill that it is somewhat late in the day to bring forward this amendment, and that it would have been a distinct advantage if the matter could have been considered in Select Committee and a provision formulated on the subject. But at the same time I venture to point out, for the consideration of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, and for the consideration of the Council, that, admitting that the matter comes up rather late for discussion, that ought not to be allowed to stand in the way and prevent our taking it up. The whole question is whether it is a desirable amendment or not. That really is the issue before the Council. Possibly, as has been pointed out by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, this amendment, as far as the person is concerned who suggested it, and who interviewed Hon'ble Members in connection with it, arose out of personal motives, but Hon'ble Members must know that oftentimes personal grievances prompt most valuable reforms, and that though we may object to the circumstances under which an amendment is put forward, the real question which we have to consider is whether the amendment is a desirable one or not. The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has stated, and we know it as a matter of fact, that gentlemen living in Calcutta, who have been Municipal Commissioners of mufassal towns have done great service to those Municipalities. But in every instance they were elected members of the Municipalities concerned. They were residents in the sense in which the word is used in the rules for the election of Municipal Commissioners, and they were duly elected by the rate-payers. I might instance the case of the late Dr. Troylukho Nath Mitter, who, though living in Bhowanipore, was an elected Commissioner of the Serampore Municipality, and was its Chairman. Again, take the case of the late Babu Bipro Dass Banerjee, Chairman of the Barasat Municipality, who also did great service as Chairman; but while residing in Calcutta he had a house at Barasat and he was therefore a 'resident' under the rules, and was an elected Commissioner. I take it that local interest is the essence of Local Self-Government. A man must feel interest in a Municipality with whose affairs he happens to be connected. But if the Government in its discretion wish to appoint an outsider, he cannot possibly feel the same degree of interest in the affairs of the Municipality as a person who is a resident within the meaning of the Act. I have heard complaints in respect of this matter, and let me mention a concrete case—the case of a gentleman connected with the Titaghur Municipality. This was not a case of a personal grievance, and, if it was, it has the complexion of a public grievance. A gentleman living in Titaghur has been appointed a member of the South Barrackpore Municipality. There is not much love lost between the two Municipalities. Titaghur was withdrawn from the South Barrackpore Municipality after a stern fight. This gentleman was appointed by the Government—I don't wish to challenge the appointment—as a member of the South Barrackpore Municipality, although he is a non-resident and a resident of Titaghur. It has been represented to me that his presence at the meetings of the South Barrackpore Municipality is at times a source of some little embarrassment to the members of tha tMunicipality. I do think the Government ought to surrender its discretion in this matter. The Government did so in the Act of 1876, which has just been read to us. Under that Act nobody could be appointed by the Government as a member of a Municipality, unless he was a 'resident' of the Municipality. I think that was a wholesome provision, and I hope the Government will not take their stand on the lateness of the amendment, but will accede to the Hon'ble Member's proposal, and amend the Bill accordingly."

The Hon'ble Mr. A. M. Bose said:—"I should have somewhat wavered in my loyalty to this amendment if there were any foundation for the prospect, vaguely referred to in the concluding remarks of the Hon'ble Mr. Risley, of lady members gracing municipal meetings. But as that hope has not been held out, and as in the proceedings during the last twelve years no indication of that graceful desire on the part of the Government has been afforded, I think I shall be true to the amendment of which I have given notice. I entirely agree with my hon'ble friend, Mr. Surendranath Banerjee, that the question is not whether this amendment comes late or not, but whether it is a necessary and a proper amendment, whether it is an amendment which would be likely to strengthen the working of the Act. This is a matter which involves a simple question of principle; it is not buried or lost in a variety of details or a mass of facts. We have had the amendment before us for some time, and I may be permitted to say that the reference which the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill made to the fact that this provision existed in the Act of 1876, is to my mind an argument in favour of the amendment and not against it. The Hon'ble Member said that in the Act of 1884 this old provision of the Act of 1876 seems somehow or other to have dropped out. Surely the necessity for the introduction of the very Bill, now before the Council, might show to the Hon'ble Member that sometimes omissions or mistakes do take place through pure inadvertence. And there may possibly have been also this consideration that, as in 1884 for the first time the privilege of election was conceded to municipalities in the Mufassal, it was thought desirable that the Government should keep in its hands the absolute and unrestricted power of nomination. Since then twelve years have passed and the Act has been admitted on all hands to have been, on the whole, a success, including those who had some misgivings at its first introduction; and I submit the time has now come when the unrestricted power should be limited and defined in the manner now proposed. If the Government were able in 1876 to select the whole number of Commissioners from amongst the rate-payers of a municipality, it was not a compliment either to them or to the municipalities to say that in 1896 they could not select one-third of that total number from the rate-payers.

"Then coming to the merits of the amendment, I beg in the first place to say that it does not in the slightest degree imply any want of confidence in the Government. On the contrary I firmly believe that according to the light and the information placed before the Government, which sometimes is perhaps a limited light because the Local Government has no direct means of knowing all the facts, the Government has done and will continue to do its very best. But it is a question of principle which is desirable in itself, and which is recommended by experience. In this connection I would also make this observation, with reference to what fell from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, that I support this amendment not because any individual may have a grievance—on that point I am not competent to say anything—but I support it on general grounds, I support it because I believe this provision would tend to the advantage of the municipalities and the strengthening of their working. As I have already said, the Government undoubtedly endeavours to exercise its discretion in the best way, but I would ask what is the reason that in the case of elected Commissioners, the limitation of residence or payment of rates is required. It cannot be on the ground of want of confidence in the rate-payers; for then they would not have the privilege of electing at all, but because it is practically admitted that nobody should be on the Commission unless he has some link of connection with the municipality either by residence or by possession of property within its limits. That is the only justification for the limitation in the case of elected Commissioners, and that, after 12 years' experience, ought to be, I submit, the guiding principle in regard also to the nomination of Commissioners. Surely within the limits of a municipality the Government can have no difficulty in getting one-third of the Commissioners who are competent and qualified under the rules for election. In the case of the Calcutta Municipality that restriction as regards nominated Commissioners exists; they must either be resident or pay certain rates. I submit that in the case of Mufassal Municipalities the same reason exists, perhaps even to a larger extent; because owing to easy accessibility to Calcutta, people living outside Calcutta might easily transact business, and have some acquaintance with the various wants and circumstances of the town. But in the case of Mufassal Municipalities that would hardly be the case, and it was therefore more desirable that no one should be elected or nominated a Commissioner who is not either 'resident' or does not pay rates in the Municipality. Now that this amendment is before us, we should lay it down that the gentlemen to be appointed Commissioners must have some interest in the Municipality, some stake in its welfare, in one or other of the ways indicated in the amendment. In the interest of the Municipalities themselves, I hope this amendment will be accepted."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said:—"I have to offer a word or two of explanation in justification of the vote I propose to give in connection with the question raised in this amendment. No doubt, I am not prepared to differ from the broad proposition that, generally speaking, it is fairly reasonable that persons who are to have a voice in the management of municipal affairs should be those who have some interest in the well-being of the Municipality either as residents or as rate payers. And if there had been absolute harmony and an absence of race-feeling in the Municipality, I would have joined hands with the Hon'ble Members who have spoken in favour of the amendment; but it is impossible for us to shut our eyes to actual facts and to the state of feeling in the mufassal, and to put the matter mildly, it is a subject of regret that there should be some little want of harmony between Hindus and Muhammadans. There are places where the Muhammadans ought to be represented in larger numbers, and I regret to say that they are not appropriately represented for fault not their own. It is therefore in every way desirable that Government should have power and should be in a position to restore or maintain the equilibrium between the two classes as the case may be. There must be sufficient discretion left in the hands of the Government to be exercised as occasion arises. I would strongly advocate the desirability of Muhammadans having a fair share in the administration of municipal affairs in the mufassal, where that community preponderates. When principles and theories lead to conflicting results, that principle which is most expedient and least mischievious in its results should be adopted. All theories must be tested by facts. It is undesirable in the protection of Muhammadan interests that I should support a proposition simply because it sounds well when read and reads well on paper. The provisions contained in section 14 of the Act have now been in existence since 1884. During the whole of this time no instance has been brought forward of misuse of the power. And apart from other views I think the very interests which are appealed to require that the existing provisions should be maintained. It may be that a case might arise where, for the protection of the interests of the Municipality itself, it might be necessary to appoint an outsider and to take full advantage of the wide power given by the section in question. I would therefore vote against this amendment."

The Hon'ble MR. PRATT said:—"Although at first sight this amendment does seem to be both moderate and reasonable, still I feel constrained to vote against it on two principal grounds. In the first place, as has already been remarked, this amendment has been somewhat abruptly brought before us. No notice has been given to the municipalities interested with regard to this question, and we have not had full opportunity of making enquiries regarding it. As has been already pointed out, this Council, after due deliberation, struck out from a former enactment, the provision which it is now proposed to re-introduce, and I should like to be in possession of the reasons which induced this Council to act as it then did, before I give my vote in favour of such an amendment. In the next place I believe it is the practice at the present time to appoint the Sub-divisional Officer to be a Commissioner of Municipalities which are not necessarily situated at the head-quarters of the sub-division; and I should conceive that no more fit individual could be appointed a Commissioner by the Government for such municipalities. And we can also quite understand that in the case of young and budding municipalities, instances will occur when it would be advantageous to appoint as Commissioners public-spirited men who, though not residing in a particular municipality, yet take a real interest in its affairs. Therefore I say that for these reasons I am not prepared to give my vote for this amendment. Perhaps on some future occasion, and when more information on the subject is placed before the Council, a provision of this kind may be accepted, but at present I feel constrained to vote against the amendment."

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA, BAHADUR, in reply, said:—"I was rather surprised to hear the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill raise a suspicion, for which there was absolutely no ground. I can assure the Hon'ble Member that nobody called on me for this purpose. I considered it a necessary amendment, and I put it forward for the acceptance of the Council, and I regret that such an observation should have been made. Certain persons might have called on the Hon'ble Member, but I say that nobody called on me on the subject. As regards the question which has been raised by the Hon'ble Mr. Pratt that the Sub-divisional Officer may be very useful as a Commissioner of a Municipality, I say it is difficult to imagine that a Sub-divisional Officer could not be paying some rates. Therefore I have used the words 'residing or paying rates.' He might possess a horse and carriage for instance, and, as I have said, I can hardly imagine that he would be excluded under this provision. It does not provide that rates must be paid for the previous twelve months or anything of that kind, or that he must be a resident, but merely 'residing.' As to the objection that this amendment comes late in the day, I submit it is not a question of fact but a question of principle, and as the principle was admitted in the previous Act, I submit there is no reason why it should not be admitted in this Bill."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I do not wish to detain the Council by any lengthy remarks, but I myself am inclined to agree with the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill that this amendment has come upon us rather suddenly at the last moment. We have had no opportunity of consulting Local Municipalities, and of considering the matter in the Select Committee, of which I was a Member. It has been strongly brought to notice that no inconvenience has arisen from this power which has remained in the hands of the Government for the last twelve years. It was also said by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, that he is not aware of the reasons which actuated the Council, when passing the Act of 1884, to change the provision of law as it existed in the Act of 1876. Neither am I in that position, nor should I be without studying the debates of the Council. I may, however, be able to throw some light on the subject. The change may possibly have been introduced in view of the circumstances of the many small municipalities in the 24-Parganas, and on the other side of the river for which it was not always possible to secure suitable Commissioners or the most suitable Chairman among the residents. In the case of the Serampore Municipality, the right of Dr. Troylukhonath Mitter to be appointed a Commissioner was, I believe, challenged, he being a non-resident, but in the interests of the Municipality his appointment as Chairman was considered extremely desirable; and in my own case I once remained a Commissioner and Chairman of an important Municipality, though I had ceased to be a resident; but if the section of the Act of 1876 had been retained, it would have removed me from those posts; but whether that would have been an advantage to the Municipality or otherwise it is not for me to say. There is an instance within my knowledge where, owing to some rule of the High Court that Munsifs shall not be appointed Chairman of Municipalities, it was impossible to find a proper person to be Chairman within the limits of the Municipality itself, and where as Commissioner of the Division I solved the difficulty by suggesting the appointment of a person to be the Chairman, who was residing at a distance, and who was in no way connected with the Municipality. So that the law, as it now stands, has a superior advantage, whereas if we alter it now it might possibly have a disadvantage which might interfere with the very working of the Municipal Law. I have no doubt instances will occur to other Hon'ble Members of persons living in Calcutta, who have some interest in neighbouring municipalities and are willing to devote a portion of their time and attention to the affairs of such municipalities."

The Motion being put, the Council divided:—

Ayes 5.	Noes 10.
The Hon'ble Mr. Das.	The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis.
The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen.	The Hon'ble Mr. Gladstone.
The Hon'ble Rai Eshan Chundra Mittra, Bahadur.	The Hon'ble Maulvi Muhammad Yusuf Khan Bahadur.
The Hon'ble Mr. Bose.	The Hon'ble Nawab Syud Ameer Hossein
The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee.	The Hon'ble Rai Durga Gati Banerjea, Bahadur.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Glass.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Risley.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Pratt.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Grimley.

So the Motion was negatived.

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE, by leave of the Council, withdrew the following motion, identical with the one just disposed of, of which he had given notice:—

That in section 3 of the Bill, after sub-section (1), the following be inserted:—

"(1) After the words 'for election to be a Commissioner of such Municipality in the paragraph following the first proviso to section 15, the following shall be added, namely:—

'And no one, unless he is a male person, who has attained the age of twenty-one years, and either resides or pays rates in the Municipality, shall be deemed qualified for nomination as such Commissioner.'"

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN also, by leave of the Council, withdrew the motion of which he had given notice that in section 3, clause (i) of the Bill, for the words "three rupees" the words "one rupee and eight annas" be substituted.

The Hon'ble Mr. A. M. Bose moved that in section 3, clause (i, after the words "three rupees," the following words be added:—

"in Howrah, and one rupee eight annas in any other Municipality."

He said:—"The principle of this amendment is that legislative sanction should now be accorded to the rules which have been framed by executive authority, which have been fully tested in operation for many years, and in regard to which there has been no complaint. Let me at the outset most fully admit that the provision of the law, as it now exists, was necessary at the time when the Act of 1884 was passed. At that time a maximum qualification was fixed, and the lower limit was left to be determined by the Government on the result of enquiries to be instituted by it. There was not then sufficient information before the Council to enable it definitely to fix what ought to be the rate of qualification in the Act itself. A maximum was laid down; and after that the Government set on foot enquiries, as the result of which certain rate-paying qualifications have been introduced and given effect to. No complaint, either in the Press or in any other way, has been made that the qualification, as it had been framed by rule, is liable to objection; therefore I ask that the qualification which has been so fixed be now embodied in the law. I fully express my gratitude to the Government that in spite of the limit of three rupees provided in the Act of 1884, they reduced it so as to place the franchise on a broader and wider basis; and I submit that the time has now come and the present opportunity should be taken advantage of, to fix that qualification by law. A vitally important matter like the qualification of voters ought to be determined by the Statute itself unless there are indeed strong reasons to the contrary. But no such reasons now exist, or can even be alleged to exist. I submit that the experience of the past does afford grounds for taking as the basis of legislation what the rules have so long laid down; that it ought not to be left to executive order to determine who shall have the franchise, but it is the duty of this Council to decide the question. I would leave the explanation as it is proposed by the Government, namely, reserve to the Government the power, if they think it necessary, to reduce the qualification still further in any case which seemed to them to require such reduction or to meet the case of newly-created municipalities; but subject to that provision, whatever qualification has been found by these twelve years' practical working to be expedient ought to be introduced in the Act; and this is what my amendment proposes to do. I will not trouble the Council with all the opinions which have been sent in favour of this amendment; but one opinion I shall venture to place before them because it is the opinion of a late Secretary to the Government and a Commissioner of Division, and one of the most distinguished Members of this Council. I refer to Mr. Buckland. He says:—

'With regard to section 3, (1), (2), (3), the Chairman of the Vishnupore Municipality writes that under the rules the right to vote has been extended to persons who pay rates to the amount of Re. 1-8, while under the Act the right is given to those who pay Rs. 3. The law should, he suggests, be brought into conformity with the rule and practice founded upon it. This appears to be worthy of consideration.'

"The British Indian and other Associations and public bodies have also supported this proposal. I say therefore that it is worthy of serious consideration that we should not leave this question of franchise to be decided by executive rules, but should bring the law and the practice into harmony with one another. I am told that besides the Municipality of Howrah, in the case of the Cossipore-Chitpore Municipality, the qualification has been raised to Rs. 3, and I have no objection to an exception being made in favour of that Municipality as well. But let not this important matter be left to be from time to time decided by the Government. It may be that long years hence the time may come for another important departure. Possibly by that time there would be occasion to revise this Act on other grounds also; but until that time comes I submit that the law should be brought into conformity with the practice, as established by rule—a practice which has been tested and not found wanting by the experience of the last twelve years."

The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen said:—"There are some cases in which we are told the rating qualification of voters has been raised. Besides the case of the Municipality of Howrah, we now hear that in the Cossipore-Chitpore Municipality the rating qualification has been raised to Rs. 3. That is a solitary case, but we have not heard of any case in which the rate fixed by the rule at Re. 1-8 has been lowered. So far, therefore, it has been a success, and that is a good reason why the rating qualification should now be fixed at that rate in the law. There has been no case in which, after the passing of the rules, the Government have thought fit to lower the franchise, but it has been thought fit to raise it in one case. Therefore I submit that it will be one of the strongest safeguards for the present franchise if, by an Act of the Legislature, the rating qualification is fixed at the lower rate by the law and not left changeable by the action of the Executive. Section 15 of the Act may be read in two ways. The word there used is 'qualification.' It may be qualification according to money rate or qualification according to age. I do not mean to say that the Government would ever think of doing so; but there is nothing to prevent them from raising the rating qualification, if they think fit, to Rs. 3 in the case of every Municipality in the Province. In that case large numbers of people, who have been enjoying the franchise for the last twelve years, will have been disenfranchised. Under the rules there are two classes of voters, those who pay rates to the amount of Re. 1-8, and those who pay a rent of not less than Rs. 20; and there may be danger of the franchise being lowered still more, and you swamp the present real body of voters who come under the Rs. 3 rule. But if instead of swamping them thus you bring down the franchise to Re. 1-8, the effect will be that the Re. 1-8 men will then be the real voters under the law. Their number would be, I think, three times as many as the number of those who pay Rs. 3. Therefore, I submit it is but fair that the Legislature should fix the maximum amount of rates on the payment of which a man will be entitled to vote in conformity with the rules which have been in force for the last twelve years."

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY said:—"I have watched with interest for the last half hour the efforts of my hon'ble friend, the member for Dacca, to ride two horses at the same time. The feat has been attempted before, but its difficulty is proverbial, and it takes a very old Parliamentary hand to do it really well. For the cause which has led my friend into this unfortunate position we must go back to an earlier meeting, when the Bill was referred to a Select Committee. The Council will remember that the Hon'ble Member's sense of the legal fitness of things suddenly became very tender. He was shocked at the supposed discordance of the law and the rules, and urged that they should be reduced to harmony. I endeavoured to the best of my ability to relieve his mind by pointing out, not on my own authority, but on that of the Hon'ble the Advocate-General, that there was no discord at all, and that under these circumstances this passion for harmony was a little out of place.

"My friend, however, stuck to his point in Select Committee, and after much discussion we eventually drafted the explanation which stands in the Bill. We did this, not because there was or ever has been any doubt in the minds of lawyers as to the meaning of the law as it now stands, but because it appeared from the opinion that this section had been misunderstood by some people, and in an Act which is worked to a great extent by Municipal Commissioners it seemed desirable to go out of our way to be clear. The explanation I submit leaves nothing to be desired in point of clearness. I have discussed it with the Hon'ble the Advocate-General, and I have his authority for saying that it adds nothing to the law and takes nothing away. It merely adds to the section an explanation in popular language of what the section really means.

"So far, the Council will see, there was not, nor has there been up to the moving of this amendment any suggestion of changing the law. My friend gave no indication of any such intention in Council. He expressly disclaimed any such intention in Select Committee. His soul only pined for harmony. Now he has got it in the form of the explanation; but still he is not happy and like a familiar personage in fiction he 'asks for more.' He wants to make a sweeping change in the law. He wishes to fix and stereotype the existing Municipal franchise and to prevent the possibility of its being changed except by the tedious process of legislation. That is what my friend's amendment really means. He has endeavoured to obscure the fact in his note of dissent which so curiously distorts the true position of the case that I must examine it a little. He says the qualification of voters is an important point. Granted. He goes on to say 'this point it is proposed to leave to the Executive Government to settle.' But is it possible that so learned a lawyer does not know that this power which he writes of as if it had been invented yesterday has, in fact, been exercised by Government for the last 20 years—in fact, ever since the passing of Bengal Act V of 1876, section 16 of which is practically identical with the first part of section 15 of the present Act? It is admitted that this power has been wisely used, no complaint as to the manner of its exercise has ever been made, and at the present moment, as I said just now, in reply to my hon'ble friend's question, the Government has before it several applications from some of the most advanced and intelligent Municipalities asking us to exercise this power by raising the voting qualification from Rs. 1-8 to Rs. 3 by doing in fact exactly what the Hon'ble Member wishes to render impossible.

"Again, my friend says 'if rules were to be the guide, there was no use whatever in bringing this matter of amendment of the Municipal Law before the Legislature.' But who brought it before the Council? Why my hon'ble friend himself, who insisted on the removal of an imaginary discord, and by the whole tenor of his speech, gave us to understand that he advocated no change in the substantive law.

"Now if my hon'ble friend had followed the proper course—the course which fairness and common sense indicate—he would have stated either in Council or in Select Committee what his real intention was, and we could then have taken opinions on the subject and have ascertained the views of District Officers, Municipalities, and Associations on the subject. It is neither seasonable nor reasonable to spring so large a change on the Council at the last moment.

"I may add that the amendment introduces so material an alteration in the Bill that would in any case be necessary to report it to the Government of India. If we adopted it now with no further consideration and no further evidence than is now before us, it is extremely probable that His Excellency the Viceroy would refuse his assent to the Bill.

"My friend says in his dissent that there is no hurry about the measure. That, as I explained on a former occasion, is not the case. Under the law the Municipal elections come on in November next. We must, therefore, pass this Bill in the present Session of Council, and we can only do so by declining to consider contentious amendments moved at the eleventh hour.

"So far I have stated what may be called preliminary objections to the amendment. These in themselves are obviously conclusive, and I might fairly stop here without going into the merits at all. To complete the case against the amendment, I may observe in the first place that the proposed change is unnecessary; in the second, that it would be inconvenient.

"On the first point I am content to rely on the authority of the Select Committee of 1893-94. That Committee may be described, so far at any rate as the non-official members are concerned, as a Committee of all the talents. It numbered among its members my hon'ble friend Babu Surendranath Banerjee, whose experience of municipal administration is large and varied: my friend Sayad Fazal Imam, the energetic Vice-Chairman of the great Municipality of Patna, and Mr. Lal Mohan Ghose, whose tact, common sense and knowledge of public business proved invaluable. In fact, you may say of it, as was said of the Master of Balliol, that what that Committee did not know was not knowledge. Their attention was expressly called to the provisions of section 15 by the proposal to raise the amount qualifying for a vote in clauses (1) and (2) from Rs. 3 to Rs. 5. They had before them the opinions of 54 Municipalities and representative institutions, of whom 21 were in favour of the Re. 1-8 qualification, 23 in favour of raising it to Rs. 5, and 10 in favour of raising it to Rs. 3. But neither the Committee nor the persons who gave opinions proposed to change the law in the manner now suggested, and the opinions bring out very clearly the fact that different municipalities may in this matter require different treatment.

"That is the common sense view, and that also is the answer to the attempt to appeal to English precedent. We have in Bengal already 148 Municipalities, and the formation of others is under consideration. These Municipalities vary in size and importance from Howrah with a population of 116,000, of whom 16,000 are rate payers, and a yearly income of nearly three lakhs, to Nalchiti, in Backergunge, with 1,645 inhabitants, 265 voters, and a yearly income of Rs. 1,908. Is it in reason to compare this state of things to the state of things that prevails in England? Can it seriously be argued that it should be made impossible for the Government to change the voting qualifications of Nalchiti without passing a special Act, that such a very big steam-hammer should be employed to crush such a very tiny nut? After all it is some objection to a proposition that it is absurd."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"No one could have listened to what has fallen from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill without coming to the conclusion that there is a great deal to be said on the other side of the question. It is a question which admits of considerable difference of opinion. I have talked with persons versed in municipal affairs, and I have heard opinions expressed adverse to the view embodied in the amendment. I therefore think we ought not to come to the conclusion that any one who differs from the amendment of my hon'ble friend is necessarily an enemy of Local Self-Government or a traitor to the best interests of his country. I think differences of opinion in a matter like this are legitimate and may be expected. The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has referred to the discussions which took place in the Select Committee of 1894, and has paid a compliment to the Select Committee for which I beg to tender my acknowledgments. This question was the subject of most careful and anxious deliberation. We contented ourselves by keeping the law as it was, and my reasons were these: An attempt was made to raise the maximum rating qualification from Rs. 3 to Rs. 5. I thought discretion was the better part of valour, and we thought we gained a point by keeping the qualification as it stood in the Act. That was the raison detre of the vote which I gave on that occasion. This matter was considered very carefully by the Select Committee on this Bill. In fact I suggested the amendment which has now been placed before the Council, and a compromise was effected, which is embodied in the Explanation. If you read the original Bill introduced in March 1896, and compare it with the present Bill, you will find that the original Bill does not contain this Explanation. It was the result of a compromise which was come to on the discussion of the amendment I suggested. It reproduces what is really the present state of the law, and will, I have no doubt go far to popularize the Bill. At the same time I admit it would be advisable to stereotype in the law the concession which has been made by the Local Government in the rules which it has framed. The franchise has been deliberately lowered to Re. 1-8 with very few complaints. Here and there there have been complaints, and in the nature of things complaints were bound to be made, having regard to the number of Municipalities and the differences between them in respect of their size, their resources and other circumstances connected with them. But the complaints have been very few indeed. That being the case, namely, that the franchise has been fixed at Re. 1-8 by the beneficient policy of a progressive Government, I think the time has come when an advance might be made in the law, and that what has hitherto been embodied in the rules should be stereotyped in the law. My hon'ble friend in charge of the Bill suggests that this will represent a substantial change in the law. I do not think so. I say it will be an adaptation of the law to what is the present practice. It will be harmonising law with practice. It will be a step in advance. Now that we are amending the law, such an amendment, if accepted, will represent a distinct advance upon the system of Local Self-Government in this Province. A rule exists which is much more liberal than the law. It embodies the policy of the Administration of the day, and I am happy to say that the attitude, specially of the present Government, has always been one of sympathy with the system of Local Self-Government. It will only be an adaptation of the law to the existing practice, and I hope my hon'ble friend, the member in charge of the Bill, will see his way to accept the amendment."

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA, BAHADUR, said:—"After the eloquent speech which the Council has just heard from my hon'ble friend, Babu Surendranath Banerjee, it is unnecessary for me to say much. It appears to me that the fact that the rule of Re. 1-8 franchise has worked well cannot be denied. I have been the Chairman of the neighbouring Municipality of Hooghly for the last twelve years, and I have heard no complaint against this rule. The people in fact seem to be under the impression that it is the law. I, therefore, contend that the law should be harmonised with the rule of Re. 1-8 franchise."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said:—"It is no doubt a sound principle that an Act of Legislation should be as complete as possible and that as little as possible should be left to the rules to be framed under the Act. I myself tried to enforce the recognition of that principle in this Council in connection with certain measures. But I failed to succeed in cases that came much better within the operation of this principle.

"It would no doubt be a triumph of legislation if all details relating to the working of the numerous Municipalities in Bengal, consisting of more than 100 in number, could be finally and formally laid down. But the causes which affect them are so varied and so many that to attempt to lay down rules—in however general terms they might be expressed—in respect to each and all would be a gigantic and hopeless task. Certain matters must therefore be dealt with in the Act in their outline, so that the details must be worked out by the rules as occasion arises in respect of each individual case. We must have confidence in the Government and we must hope that the right thing to be done shall be done. In fact, all the gentlemen who have preceded me have spoken in terms which shew utmost confidence in the Government. From the satisfactory way in which Municipalities have under the rules framed by the Government for a period of about twelve years, worked one may confidently expect the same satisfaction in future. The Government would enforce the same standard as before, but it has under the Act as it stands some discretion and some power which has only been exercised in cases of emergency. I do not think it would be to promote the interests of the community I represent if the Act is to be rendered less elastic and if the Government is to be deprived of the power which was hitherto vested in it."

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE said:—"I trust that at any rate we shall have the vote of my hon'ble friend who has last spoken in support of this amendment. He admitted fully the soundness of the principle, but his objection to vote in its favour arose from what he believed to be the practical difficulty of carrying it out. That was an argument which was also advanced by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill. But that argument is opposed to actual experience. The rules were framed in 1884, and with the exception of one Municipality to which the 3 Rs. qualification was applied, with regard to all the other Municipalities, the Government found on enquiry that the one rule of Re. 1-8 would be suitable; and it has been admitted that no complaints have been brought forward against this arrangement. Let not therefore the Council be scared away by the idea put forth by the last speaker and also by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill as to the gigantic and hopeless task of framing a large number of rules. Experience has shown that that is not necessary. The gigantic task referred to has already been accomplished, was accomplished in fact 12 years ago; and the method of its performance has given uniform satisfaction. I was glad to hear of the compliment paid by the Hon'ble Mr. Risley to the Select Committee of 1894. But as that compliment has been used as an argument against the acceptance of this amendment, I may be permitted to remind the Council that the Hon'ble Member has not always spoken in such high terms of that Committee. In his Circular letter, dated the 28th April last, addressed to all Commissioners of Divisions, he says that 'owing to defective drafting, section 15(3) of the Act is wholly unintelligible in its present form.' Surely that drafting was placed before the Select Committee, was considered by the Select Committee, and was adopted by them. But the Circular says that a section which was considered and passed by the Select Committee has in fact no meaning at all.

"Then coming to the other point which was urged, that this amendment will introduce a material change in the Bill, and that it is not right or fair that the change should be brought up in this ex-parte way, I submit that if there was any matter which was referred to all Municipalities and District Officers for opinion in connection with the present Bill, it was the question of this very section 15. It was prominently mentioned in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, and was referred to at the time when the Bill was sent to the Select Committee and from the prominence so given to it, section 15 in all its aspects, was fully considered by all Municipalities. As a matter of fact a great many of the parties who were consulted have given their opinions on this very point, and many of them are in favour of the proposal to harmonise the rules and the law—the very principle which is now being contended for. Therefore, whether it is a sound principle or an unsound principle, at any rate it is not liable or open to the objection that it has been sprung upon the Council at this late hour. I have already referred to Mr. Buckland's opinion and I need not refer to it again.

"The whole question lies in a nutshell. What we ask is that the Government should not have the power to disfranchise a body of men, who have enjoyed and exercised the power of voting for so many years, without the sanction of the legislature. Is that asking for too much, or for what is unreasonable? After twelve years the law is being amended; the Government has enough experience whereon to base definite proposals, and the proposed explanation leaves to the Government the power of extending still further the benefit of its liberal policy by reducing the franchise.

"With reference to what is called the tedious process of consulting this Council, I consider that a desirable process, even if it should sometimes prove tedious; and I contend that it will be to the interest of the Government itself to adopt that procedure in all cases in which they may desire to deprive the people of a privilege which by its own action they have enjoyed for a long time. And after all it is not a very tedious process. If after a period of say from three to six years the Government find in the case of a certain Municipality or a group of Municipalities a slight raising of the rating qualification is necessary, a short Bill of one section will answer the purpose, if the materials placed before the Council are sufficient. That is the principle of the amendment, and I appeal to the Council to accept that principle as reasonable and sound. And I would appeal to the Government to consider that disfranchising people is not a popular thing. By taking the legislature into its confidence when circumstances rendered this course of disfranchising necessary, they would give publicity to their reasons, enlist public support on their behalf, and, if unpopularity there was to be, at least make the legislature sharers in that unpopularity."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"The course pursued by the Hon'ble Members, the movers of amendments 3 and 7, calls to mind an utterance ascribed to a former Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, Sir John Peter Grant, that the administration of this country could be appropriately described by the metaphor of changing six pence into half-pence and the same half-pence back into six pence every decade. The amendments are a singular example of the aptness of this illustration, for they propose to revert to a policy which was deliberately disapproved in this Council twelve years ago, and the abandonment of a policy as deliberately approved in the same debate, which has stood the test of all these years. In the Municipal Bill of 1884 the property qualification was placed at Re. 1-8; but before the Bill passed into law this was rejected and a Rs. 3 rate adopted. As a Member of the Select Committee I have read with attention the remarks of the Hon'ble Babu Guru Prosad Sen in support of his proposal, that the Legislature should provide for the qualifications of voters by positive enactment, and I have listened to the effective speeches before this Council of the Hon'ble Messrs. Bose and Surendranath Banerjee, but I venture to think that the Hon'ble Members have not clearly foreseen the full effect of the measure they advocate. It would, as the Hon'ble Mr. Risley has already said, fix and stereotype the franchise within narrow bounds, which cannot be passed without fresh legislation, while under the present elastic system it is possible to Government within certain limitations to extend the franchise at any time and in any manner it may think fit. The principle underlying the present Municipal Act, as formulated by the Hon'ble Mr. Reynolds, who introduced the Bill in 1884, is the recognition of the demand of the more intelligent classes for a large freedom in the management of their own affairs, and this was intended to be secured by permitting the people to chose their own representatives. To this end the Act provided that rules should be framed by Government for the conduct of Municipal elections. There was so much variety in size and importance in the different Municipalities that it was impossible to make provisions in the new law which would be applicable to each. 'But' said Mr. Reynolds (I quote from the debates in this Council), 'if this power of passing rules were subject to no restrictions, it is evident that the power might be so used as to nullify the principle of popular election. It would be of little use to extend the elective system to a Municipality and then to declare by a rule that the franchise should only be exercised by those who paid Rs. 50 a year in rates. The Bill therefore provides that while Government may lay down such rules as it thinks fit, and may cancel any rule at its pleasure, it may not make a rule which would have the effect of excluding from the franchise any resident of the Municipality who pays rates to the amount of two annas a month.' This passage from Mr. Reynolds's speech makes it clear that the restriction imposed of a property qualification in certain cases, was framed in the interest of the rate-payer, and was in fact, a restriction intended to bind the hands of Government not to raise the franchise. It practically dictates to Government 'you may lower the franchise as you will, but you may not place a limit, imposed by law, which says that every person who pays rates to the extent of Rs. 3 is entitled to a vote;' but it does not say that any one who has paid below this rate is not so entitled, for it leaves it open to Government by the rules to reduce the limit as it may think proper. As a matter of fact Government has acted liberally under the rules, as the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee admits, and lowered the limit generally to Re. 1-8, the only exception being the large Municipalities of Howrah and Cossipore-Chitpore. The amendments suggested appear to me to be opposed to the first principles of Municipal legislation, as understood when the Act was passed, and I shall therefore vote against them."

The Motion being put, the Council divided:—

Ayes 5.	Noes 10.
The Hon'ble Mr. Das.	The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis.
The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen.	The Hon'ble Mr. Gladstone.
The Hon'ble Rai Eshan Chundra Mittra, Bahadur.	The Hon'ble Maulvi Muhammad Yusuf Khan Bahadur.
The Hon'ble Mr. Bose.	The Hon'ble Nawab Syud Ameer Hossein.
The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee.	The Hon'ble Rai Durga Gati Banerjea Bahadur.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Glass.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Risley.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Pratt.
	The Hon'ble Mr. Grimley.

So the Motion was negatived.

The Hon'ble BÁBU GURU PROSHAD SEN moved that in section 3, after clause (iii), the following clause be added:—

"(iv) has paid not less than Rs. 20 as rent in respect of the occupation by him of a holding which is assessed with the rate under section 85, clause (b)."

He said:—"Under the law as it stands it will be found by the Hon'ble Members of this Council that there is not a word with respect to what is called the 'lodger franchise.' Section 15 stands thus:—

Rules to be laid down for election.

'For the purposes of the aforesaid election of Commissioners, the Local Government, with respect to each Municipality, shall lay down such rules, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, as it shall think fit, in respect of the Division, where necessary, of each Municipality into wards, and the number of Commissioners to be elected for each of such wards, the qualifications required to entitle any person to vote for a candidate for election, and in respect of the mode of election. And the Local Government may at any time cancel any rule made by it under this section:

Provided that every male person who is at the time of such election, and has been for a period of not less than twelve months immediately preceding such election, resident within the limits of a Municipality, and who—

(i) has, during the year immediately preceding such election, paid, in respect of any of the rates imposed by this Act, an aggregate amount of not less than three rupees; or

(ii) has, during the year aforesaid, paid, or been assessed to the tax imposed by Act II of 1886 (an Act for imposing a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture); or

(iii) being a member of a joint undivided family, one of the members of which has, during the year immediately preceding such election, paid, in respect of any of the rates imposed by this Act, an aggregate amount of not less than three rupees, is a graduate or licentiate of any University, or holds a certificate as a pleader or a mukhtear, or revenue agent, shall be entitled to vote at the election of Commissioners of such Municipality.

'No person who is not entitled to vote at the election of Commissioners of a Municipality shall be deemed qualified for election to be a Commissioner of such Municipality.

"Then comes the explanation which provides that the 'rules made under this section may reduce but not raise any of the sums mentioned in the first proviso thereto, and may declare that any persons who are not referred to in that proviso shall be entitled to vote.' There is a large class of persons paying Rs. 20 for holdings assessed under section 85 who have during the last twelve years enjoyed the franchise. Possibly it is not intended to deprive these persons of the franchise, but I submit that this explanation will not help to prevent their being deprived of the franchise, if the Government so determine. Some attempt has been made to father this explanation upon me. I deny that parentage, but I see that my hon'ble friend, Babu Surendranath Banerjee, owns its paternity. We have been told that any person who is a lawyer will not have any doubt regarding the correct interpretation of this section, but we have many opinions coming from Government officials and from public Associations with numbers of lawyers in them who have fallen into an error; and what is still more even the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill cannot but admit that the language of the section admits of two different interpretations. It is only the word 'qualification' in the early part of the section which one can rely upon to enable the Government to frame rules not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act which may reduce to a minimum the right given under the Act; for if a large number of persons with a qualification of a Re. 1 or As. 8 rate can be brought in in order to swamp the right of those who have the franchise under the law, then what is that right worth? Therefore strictly in accordance with the interpretation of the law it will not enable the Local Government to put a different construction to it than that of which it naturally admits, and you must read the word 'qualification' as meaning a qualification other than a monetary qualification. I am glad, however, that an assurance has been given that it is not intended to disfranchise this large body of voters. But if the rating qualification of Re. 1-8 has worked well within the last twelve years, why should we not, as a matter of principle, enact it by law?

"As for the other portion of my amendment, I hope I will not be misunderstood. This is an amendment which stands by itself. It has nothing to do with controlling the power of the Government. Even without controlling the power of the Government, you may form a class of voters under clause (iv) and still leave the section as it is. This also is the case with the first clause, the amendment upon which has just been lost. Under the amendment which I now propose persons will be entitled to vote who have paid not less than Rs. 20 as rent in respect of the occupation by them of a holding which is assessed with the rate under section 85, clause (b): that does not exclude the power of the Government to lower the franchise still further or to bring in other persons. I submit there is no reason why men who have been enjoying the franchise for the last twelve years should now be swept away, and which it is possible may be done. Well it may be said that there is no intention to sweep them away, and probably it will not be done under the present liberal Government. But what is the guarantee that this will never be done?

It is the object of my amendment to prevent this being done, and it has no reference to taking away the power of the Government in any way."

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley said:—"I understood the Hon'ble Rai Eshan Chundra Mittra Bahadur to say, when the question of grouping these amendment was discussed, that it would be convenient that the principle of all these amendments should be discussed upon the first amendment, and that it would be unnecessary to discuss it again when the other amendments came up. The rules which have been framed under the Act were drawn up in 1884 by Mr. Macaulay in consultation with the Advocate-General and the Legal Remembrancer of the day, and the Law Officers of the Government have now held that those rules are in accordance with the law as it stands, and they add that the alterations which the Select Committee now propose do represent the law as it stands. The attitude which the Government has assumed with reference to all these municipalities is to act in accordance with their wishes, and their wishes have been thoroughly considered with reference to the effect they are likely to have. It appears to me impossible to please any one who takes the view the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment entertains. If we raise the franchise, the complaint is that we disfranchise numbers of voters. If we lower the franchise, we are told we shall swamp the existing voters. It is difficult to see how an unfortunate Government can possibly be right under these circumstances. The Rs. 20 lodger qualification was introduced in 1886 to meet a want which was then suggested; it was carefully considered, and there is no intention to deprive this class of voters of the franchise. But it might happen that the circumstances of particular municipalities might be such that a different amount of rent might be suitable, either more or less than Rs. 20. Why should it be proposed to cut off from the Government the power of complying with the wishes of those municipalities in a matter of this kind? That is the whole point to be considered in regard to this amendment."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee said:—"I am sorry I cannot accept this amendment. The Hon'ble Mover of the amendment proposes that a particular rule should be incorporated in the law, and the argument in favor of his proposal is that there is no guarantee that the rule may not be done away with in the future, and a large class of people may thus be disenfranchised. We have the assurance of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill that there is not the remotest idea on the part of the Government to disenfranchise the class of voters referred to in the amendment, and if ever there was any such danger, the fact of this discussion in the Council will afford an effectual safeguard against such a proceeding on the part of the Government. That, I submit, is a sufficient safeguard against the possibility in the future of this right being taken away. We cannot possibly incorporate all the rules which have been passed by the Government into the law. I should have felt greater inclination to accept the amendment, if it were proposed to reduce the qualification from Rs. 20 to Rs. 10, if an attempt had been made to widen and broaden the franchise, and not to stereotype it. The Government ought to have the power of extending the franchise, but I do not think the Government have any intention to raise it in order to exclude those who now possess the right. The action of the Government in the past precludes the possibility of such an assumption. It has been a past of much sympathy and of generous encouragement of Local Self-Government, and we may take it that in the future it will be the same. For these reasons I am not prepared to accept this amendment."

The Hon'ble Maulvi Muhammad Yusuf Khan Bahadur said:—"The question raised by this amendment stands upon a footing slightly different from that on which the question, raised in the last amendment which has just been disposed of, stood. The argument in favour of the amendment might be stated thus: no doubt the rules framed under the Act relate to lodging franchise, but the section itself is silent in regard to such franchise, so that this amendment supplies a heading and an item, and points to a class of persons not indicated in the section. Considered in this light, the amendment seems to be a reasonable one. The section lays down certain principles as landmarks, and indicates certain classes in a general way, and the Government is empowered to frame rules thereunder: the rules are not necessarily to be restricted to the classes to which the section relates, but it would be more symmetrical if the classes could, with some approach to exhaustiveness, be laid down in the section. As the section at present stands, this class does not find a place there. The first clause deals with the qualification of payment of Rs. 3 rates, the second refers to the income-tax qualification; the third refers to the case of joint undivided Hindu families; but there is no clause relating to a lodging franchise.

"No doubt rules framed by the Government under section 15 comprise the case of lodging franchise, and there is also no doubt that such rules are not ultra vires in consequence of the omission of the class in the section. But it would be far more satisfactory to include a clause in section 15 introducing a heading relating to lodging franchise by way of recognition of a principle in the enactment itself. I do not understand it is the object of the amendment to lay down the limit of Rs. 20; for reasons already assigned by me whilst discussing the last amendment, I do not think it expedient to lay down a rigid rule and to restrain or limit the power of the Government in regard to the extent of the qualification. That must be left to the Government as a matter of detail. Hon'ble Members have already highly eulogised the action of the Government in framing the rules and carrying them into effect. If therefore the money qualification is the gist of the amendment, then I am not inclined to view it with favour, and the matter must remain where it is: but if the object of the amendment is to supply a class, then it has my sympathy. Therefore, regarded from this point of view, subject to some further light which might be thrown on the nature of the amendment and its effect in the course of the discussion, I am, as at present advised, inclined to vote in favour of the amendment."

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said:—"I was at first inclined to support this amendment, but in view of certain remarks which have fallen from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, I am not now prepared to support it. When this Bill was introduced, the Hon'ble Member said that it was one of the proposals—rather a prominent proposal—to grant what may be called a lodger franchise in future. I expected that the rule now under discussion would be embodied in the Act, because it certainly was in the nature of a lodger franchise. But as it has not been embodied in the Bill, I would have voted for the amendment, but for the remarks which fell from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, and which remarks were to the effect that a certain amount of latitude ought to be left to the Government so as to meet certain cases in which it may be necessary to reduce the amount of qualification and other cases in which it may be necessary to raise it; whereas if we embodied the rule as it stands in the Act, we would stereotype the qualification, and no latitude of discretion would be left to the Government. From the assurance which has been given by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill and the remarks he made in introducing it pointing out the intention of the Government to confer a lodger-franchise, I venture to think we should rest satisfied that it is not intended by the Government to disenfranchise any persons who have been hitherto qualified."

The Hon'ble MR. A. M. BOSE said:—"I wish to make one observation, and that is, to suggest to the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment not to press his Motion to a division. I do this on two grounds: first that he may well be content with the very favourable statement made by he Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, namely that the Government have no intention of lowering the franchise, and, secondly, that the question of principle involved has already been decided, namely, whether the legislature ought to leave to the Government the power of making rules in respect of these matters instead of embodying them in the Act. That question was raised and fully discussed on a former amendment, and I think it is better to accept the fact that the Government has certainly had the better in the voting."

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN, in reply, said:—"I regret I cannot accept the suggestion of the Hon'ble Member who last spoke, because by my next amendment on the agenda I propose to do what the Government are so much afraid of; that is to say, to control the power of the Government in these matters and have them determined by an Act of the Legislature. I have only heard a few remarks which ought to be answered in connection with this measure. My hon'ble friends who intend to vote against me on this occasion would like to give the Government a latitude to frame rules, in other words, to give an elasticity to the provisions of the Act, which is a favourite expression with some of them. As for that I have only to submit that elasticity will not be wanting if the Government would move the Legislature from time to time to amend the law as may be found convenient, and not leave it to be done by framing rules. It is also said that by leaving this power in the hands of the Government, the qualification might either be raised or lowered, as may be found expedient. I would not quarrel with the lowering of the franchise to any extent possible, but it will be dangerous to leave to the Government the power of raising the franchise. The Government might raise the lodger franchise from Rs. 20 to Rs. 100. That is what is meant by raising the money qualification, and we have no section corresponding to the section prescribing the 3-rupee rate as the maximum, that a man paying a rent of Rs. 20 shall be entitled to vote. If that had been inserted in the law, I may have seen the wisdom of Hon'ble Members opposing this amendment. There is no maximum fixed in the law. Everything is left in the hands of the Government, and they are left to provide this lodger-franchise at any amount they please under the words contained in the explanation—'and may declare that any persons who are not referred to in that proviso shall be entitled to vote.' That is something which appears to me—I will not say absurd—but something which is out of order. It will be, as was said by the Hon'ble Maulvi Mahammad Yusuf, not in the spirit of the law to frame rules by which you will confer a lodger-franchise. The spirit of the Act will be against such a rule."

The Motion being put, the Council divided:—

Aye 1.	Noes 14.
Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen.	Hon'ble Mr. Wallis. Hon'ble Mr. Das. Hon'ble Mr. Gladstone. Hon'ble Rai Eshan Chundra Mittra Bahadur. Hon'ble Mr. Bose. Hon'ble Maulvi Muhammad Yusuf Khan Bahadur. Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee. Hon'ble Nawab Syud Ameer Hossein. Hon'ble Rai Durga Gati Banerjea Bahadur. Hon'ble Mr. Glass. Hon'ble Mr. Finucane. Hon'ble Mr. Risley. Hon'ble Mr. Pratt. Hon'ble Mr. Grimley.

So the Motion was negatived.

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN also moved that the word "only" be inserted after the word "shall," where it occurs in the concluding clause of the first proviso to section 15 of the Act, so as to make the clause run thus:—

"shall only be entitled to vote at the election of Commissioners of such Municipality."

He also moved that in section 3, sub-section (3) be omitted, and that in its place the following be substituted:—

"Explanation.—The words 'qualifications required to entitle any person to vote for a candidate for election' relate to the qualification as to age and as to one's being registered as a voter under the rules to be framed by the Local Government under this section."

He said:—"This brings us to the question of principle, with regard to which we have heard the reply in anticipation, and I submit that the principle is a very sound one, namely, that instead of leaving everything to be done by rules, the most important matters should be provided by the law. The maximum rating qualification is Rs. 3. By putting it at Rs. 2-8 you will disenfranchise a large class of men who have been enjoying it for the last twelve years under the Re. 1-8 rule, and by putting it still higher at Rs. 3 you possibly disenfranchise three-fourths of the present voters. On the other hand, by putting it very low, you can swamp a number of voters to whom you have given the right and privilege. You minimise the right to nothing. If you have not got all the materials before you to come to a conclusion regarding this matter, you should wait until all the materials are obtained. We are told that we cannot do this, we cannot wait, because the next election will take place in October next. That, I submit, is no reason why in considering an Act of the Legislature there should be any hurry. The last elections took place under the existing rules. The concession, to be a real concession, must be a concession which is made by the Legislature, and not left to be provided for by rules made by the Local Government, however favourable that Government may be to lowering the franchise. No doubt the present Government is very liberally disposed to all kinds of local institutions, but at the same time I must say, and I must say distinctly, to those who are the supporters of the principle of Local Self-Government in this country, that this is a matter which ought not to be left to the will of the Executive alone. I appeal to those who desire to foster the principle of Local Self-Government, whether my amendment does not meet with their entire approval. I will not compare India with countries which have both the Municipal and Parliamentary franchise. I will not compare our little India with Great Britain; but, on consulting the English Statutes, I find that in many Acts qualifications are not only laid down for guidance, but even the details are regulated by the Legislature. They do not leave even the matter of registration to the Executive, but employ revising barristers for the purpose. In India, in the Presidency towns, the rating qualification is fixed by Statute, and even in the North-Western Provinces, where these matters are left to rules, there is a safe-guard under which the rules are to be framed, and that is that the people are to be consulted in framing these rules, and in other places you are allowed six months to consider the rules. Under these circumstances I submit that, as by the experiment which has been tried within the last twelve years, it has been established that the Re. 1-8 rating qualification is suitable for all municipalities in these Provinces, and that the lodger franchise of Rs. 20 will also answer, we have now arrived at a time when these matters should be definitely provided by an Act of the Legislature, and not be left to the Executive. If this amendment is accepted, it will make as little change in the present rule of franchise as possible.

"One word as to the change of attitude with which I have been charged. I do not know of any such change of attitude or change of position on my part. I have never held that the matter should be left to the discretion of the Local Government, as some of my friends have thought fit to do on different grounds. I do not know the ground upon which some Hon'ble Members would proceed, but I know the ground upon which my hon'ble friend, Babu Surendranath Banerjee, is acting, namely, the ground of elasticity. I have contended from the very beginning that this matter ought not to be left to be determined by rules, but should be provided for by positive legislation, and I do not think I can be charged with any change of attitude. If the rules are to provide for everything, how is it that this amending Bill is brought before the Legislature. The rules might very well have provided for the few changes now sought to be made in the law. The only important matter embodied in the Bill is the proposal to confer the franchise on those who pay income-tax. If the interpretation of the law is as it is said to be, how is it that this Rs. 50 income-tax clause could not be provided for by rule. In this case my hon'ble friend, the Mover of the Bill, thought otherwise; he did not think it could be done without an Act of the Legislature. I say that if the rules are to be our guide on every point, in that case there would be no necessity for an enactment of this Legislative Council. I submit that those who are the friends of Local Self-Government should vote with me in this matter."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said:—"I think after what has fallen from my hon'ble friend, Babu Surendranath Banerjee, the Hon'ble Mover of this amendment will be pleased to consider whether it would not be wise in him to withdraw the amendment. He has just been defeated in the amendment relating to lodging franchise, and the effect of introducing the little word 'only' might be that Government would be precluded from framing rules including the very persons for whose benefit statutory recognition was insisted on, viz., persons who pay Rs. 20 as rent assessed under section 85. The Hon'ble Mover of the amendment would, by showing persistance in favour of his amendment, defeat the very object he had in view in moving the preceding amendment, which, although nominally lost, is really secured, though in a different shape.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY said:—"I do not think the Hon'ble Member has seen the consequences which will result from this amendment. By inserting the word 'only' in the concluding clause of the first 'proviso' to section 15, he proposed to stereotype his two earlier amendments, but these he has now lost, and if he passes this, he will stereotype the law as it now stands, and the effect will be that he will disfranchise all those who now have a right to vote under the Rs. 20 lodger-franchise. As to the question of principle, the position of the Government has been entirely misapprehended: we have no intention of reducing the franchise. All that the Government desires is to give each Municipality what it wants. To embody in the law the varied requirements of all the municipalities would save the Government a great deal of trouble. In point of fact this movement to stereotype the Re. 1-8 rating qualification surprises me extremely, because it is the one question in which the several municipalities have clearly expressed their wishes. Out of the whole number, 33 municipalities want to raise the franchise, some to Rs. 5, some to Rs. 3, and 21 want to keep it at Re. 1-8, and the Government agree that for the minor small municipalities Re. 1-8 is the best limitation, but in more advanced places the qualification of Rs. 3 and Rs. 5 might be introduced if people want it. I do not think the Re. 1-8 limit expresses the wish of the more intelligent classes of the community. The limit of the municipal franchise in England cannot be referred to by way of comparison, because it follows the Parliamentary franchise and refers to a wholly different state of things. Then the Hon'ble Member said that the Government of the North-Western Provinces took a more liberal view of things and regulated the franchise by Statute. I do not happen to have the Municipal Act of the North-Western Provinces at hand to refer to, but my impression is that in the whole of Northern India legislation is based on the principle of leaving as much as possible to be provided for by rules, and that I submit is distinctly better than to attempt to provide for all possible circumstances by legislation. As to consulting local bodies before passing rules, I may mention that I think the last proposed edition of the rules was sent out with a long explanatory letter and circulated to District Officers and Municipalities some time in May last. I do not wish to dwell on the question of my hon'ble friend's change of position. He said in April when the Bill was introduced that no change in the law is necessary; now he says he wants to harmonise the law with the rules and the existing practice. My own opinion is that any attempt to do so will bring about rather discord than harmony."

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA, BAHADUR said:—"The circumstances of the several municipalities are so varied and different that it is impossible to say that no power should be left to Government to frame rules. We must have some rules, and every day there may be a necessity to frame some rule. I therefore cannot agree with my hon'ble friend that we should stereotype the existing practice by including in the law what is now provided by rules."

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN, in reply, said:—"After the assurance which has been given by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Municipal Department of this Government, it is not necessary for me to press this matter to a decision, especially as my amendment regarding the Rs. 20 lodger-franchise and the Hon'ble Mr. Bose's amendment regarding the Re. 1-8 rating qualification have been negatived, I therefore beg leave to withdraw the motion which is now before the Council."

The Motions were, by leave of the Council, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that after the word "University" in line 6 of clause (iii) of section 3, the following words be added:—

"Or has passed the First Arts examination of the Calcutta or any other Indian University."

He said:—"Clause (iii) of section 3 of this Bill proposes to confer the franchise upon a person 'being a member of a joint-undivided family, one of the members of which has, during the year aforesaid, paid in respect of any rates an aggregate amount of not less than three rupees—is a graduate or licentiate of any University,' and so on. I claim for my amendment that it is in entire accord with the principle which underlies this Bill. I am thankful to be able to say that this Bill represents a distinct advance upon the principle of Local Self-Government, inasmuch as it includes a large body of intelligent men who hitherto have not enjoyed the franchise, and I beg to tender my acknowledgments for the conciliatory spirit which the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill evinced throughout our discussions in the Select Committee, and, as a proof of that conciliatory spirit, I desire to refer to the Bill as it has been amended by the Select Committee as compared with the Bill which was introduced in March, 1896. There is a great difference between the Bill as it now stands and the Bill as it was introduced. Many important and significant modifications have now been made in the Bill. The Bill has been practically recast in the light of the opinions which have been received by the Select Committee. It is not necessary for me to refer to the various modifications which have been made. I need only refer to the important changes which have been made in the section to which my amendment refers. When introducing this Bill, the Hon'ble Member in charge proposed to create a lodger franchise, to confer the franchise on all persons in occupation of holdings paying an annual rate of Rs. 3, provided they were in receipt of a monthly salary of Rs. 50. But this lodger franchise has now been abandoned in favour of the much wider proposal which confers the franchise on all residents of municipal towns, no matter whether they are in occupation of holdings which pay rates to the amount of Rs. 3 or not, provided only that they be assessed to the income-tax. The change broadens the franchise and confers it on persons who did not possess it before. It is not necessary that such persons should be in receipt of a salary of Rs. 50 a month, but that they should have an income of about Rs. 42 a month, and that their names should appear in the assessment books of the Income-Tax Department. I want to broaden the franchise a little further, to give fuller effect to the policy which underlies the Bill, and I claim the sympathy of the Council and of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill in favor of my amendment. I have no hesitation in saying that undergraduates are at least as intelligent and as honest a class of men as Mukhtears and Revenue Agents. And having regard to one of the election rules, which provides that no person shall be allowed to vote who has not attained the age of 21 years, we have a safeguard which will prevent too young persons from exercising the franchise. The undergraduates upon whom I desire to confer the franchise represent a considerable constituency. I have made some rough calculations, and I desire to place the materials before the Council, in the hope that Hon'ble Members will be in a position to form their own conclusions. The First Arts examination has been in force for the last 35 years in the Calcutta University. For the last 8 or 10 years the average number of those who have passed the First Arts examination is more than 1,000. The average of the last 5 years was about 1,200. If for the 35 years you take an average of 500 a year, you will have at least 17,000 undergraduates, resident in mufassal towns, who ought to be admitted to the franchise. But even taking 10,000 to be residing in mufassal towns, they represent a considerable number of intelligent people who ought to be invested with the franchise. It might be said why not include those who have passed similar examinations in connection with the English Universities. I have not the slightest objection to widen the scope of my amendment. But I look upon this matter from a practical point of view. How insignificant must be the number of English graduates in mufassal towns in Bengal, as compared with the number of Indian graduates. I proceed on the actual lines of the Act and of the Bill. You don't confer the franchise on barristers who have been reading in the Inns of Court, and have passed the examinations, and have gone through the important ceremony of eating their dinners, although these gentlemen may be residing in the mufassal. But you have conferred the franchise on the much lower class of legal practitioners, known as mukhtears and revenue agents. I thus follow the lines of the Bill. My amendment is in complete harmony with its principles. I therefore feel the less hesitation in appealing to my hon'ble friend in charge of the Bill, who being on the governing body of the University must feel an interest in the intellectual as well as in the political advancement of our young men, to accept this amendment. It is indeed a very small concession, but if granted it will popularize the Bill, strengthen the electorate, and broaden the basis of Local Self-Government by enlisting on its behalf the sympathies of the young, the ardent, and the intelligent."

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY said :—"I have found myself, Sir, so much in accord with my hon'ble friend in respect of other sections of this Bill, and his attitude towards the Bill has been so generally reasonable, that I am sorry I cannot go with him in this. To start with, the amendment amounts to giving votes to under-graduates as such. There is no getting over that. You may define it in terms of the First Arts, but it really means giving votes to under-graduates. If the Council does that, the Council will lay itself open to comment, and will run the risk of making itself ridiculous. Moreover, when once we have embarked on the course of enlarging these educational qualifications, where are you to stop? If the F.A. men are to get votes, why not the Entrance men, and I can imagine a plea being put in even for the fail-entrances? We shall have opened a door which ought not to be opened, and the tendency will be to try and open it wider.

"Then there is a more serious objection. You will see if you look at the Act that the proposal gives to under-graduates of Calcutta a privilege which is restricted to graduates of the elder Universities. This is a fatal flaw, and I do not see how it could be got over. I can see no solution.

"Lastly, even if you chose to ignore the illogical character of the proposal, it would in any case work unevenly. You might even have in the same joint family two members, one of whom had passed the Calcutta F. A., and the other had passed or even taken honours in moderations at Oxford, but had stopped there. The Calcutta man would have a vote; the Oxford man would not."

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA, BAHADUR, said :—"I rise to support this amendment. I think that inasmuch as by this Bill the franchise has been given to gentlemen who have obtained licenses from vernacular medical schools, why should not the same privilege be given to a class of men who from their education are likely to exercise the franchise most intelligently? It is well-known that in the Mufassal it is most difficult to secure the votes of educated candidates, and those who have obtained a certain amount of education and position are not likely to be led away by the tricks which are played upon ignorant and uneducated men, such as cart-drivers and others of the same class. They are a respectable body of men, and they should have the privilege of voting in the same way as the holders of the diplomas of Government colleges and mukhtears and revenue agents, with whom under-graduates are at any rate equally educated."

The Hon'ble Mr. A. M. Bose said—"I really hoped that the persuasive powers of my hon'ble friend the Mover of the amendment would have prevailed to secure the adhesion of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, but I confess myself disappointed. The first argument against the amendment is that if we adopt this proposal there will be no knowing where to stop. The Hon'ble Member is well aware that that is a stock argument which in the history of progressive legislation is always brought forward whenever any change is proposed. The answer to that argument is that a change should be resisted when for its own sake it ought to be resisted, but not on the ground that it may possibly in the future lead to other changes. The next argument of the Hon'ble Mr. Risley, which in fact was his strongest argument, was one with which I shall have felt considerable sympathy if it had any appreciable foundation in fact. This was that by this amendment you would draw an invidious distinction between under-graduates of Indian Universities and those who have passed similar examinations in connection with English and other European Universities. That, I submit, is hardly an argument of a practical character under the circumstances of the present case. I confess, speaking for our countrymen who have been to European Universities, that I cannot at present call to mind any instance of gentlemen resident in the mufassal who have proceeded to Europe and who have passed the previous examination of some University there but did not proceed to a degree. And with regard to European gentlemen similarly situated, one is not aware of any such residing in a mufassal Municipality. No instances were mentioned. At any rate, whether it is so or not, the number of such gentlemen is not likely to be of any appreciable magnitude. And in any case the difficulty, if any, can be easily removed by slightly broadening the scope of the amendment. I appeal therefore to the Hon'ble Member to reconsider the matter. Having regard to other classes of voters whom it is proposed to admit, those who have passed the First Arts examination and are 21 years of age, would form a most desirable addition to the electoral body. Another argument which has been advanced is that by adopting this amendment we shall be breaking new ground. I say, first, that this is not an argument which comes with very good grace from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, the very object of which is to break new ground. That is the reason for the Bill, and though the amendment of my hon'ble friend may go beyond the scope of the proposals contained in the Bill, it is a reasonable extension of the franchise; and after all it is new ground very much more limited in its character than that which is the groundwork of the amending legislation proposed by the Hon'ble Member. I again appeal to him to consider whether it will not be desirable to recognise the educational test as an important test in connection with the exercise of the franchise. It has been pointed out that gentlemen who have satisfied the requirements of the University, and who have probably entered life in various capacities, would be at least as well qualified, both intellectually and morally, as many of those on whom it is proposed by the Bill to confer the municipal franchise, and I appeal to the Hon'ble Member to say whether education is not the best help towards good administration, its best ally, and its securest guarantee. By recognising it you not only liberalise your policy, but you strengthen your position and improve the practical results of the exercise of the franchise."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said:—"The strong and eloquent appeal which has been made in favour of this amendment has not failed to make an impression on my mind, although, correctly speaking, what has weighed with me more than the appeal is the favourable effect of the amendment, so far as it tends to the furtherance and promotion of Muhammadan interests. It is on this ground that I give my support to this amendment and add my voice in its favour. The persuasive powers of my hon'ble friends having failed to achieve success, I will try the effect of my arguments; and I put the matter thus: the sum total of convenience in favour of the amendment far outweighs the inconvenient points. There are a great many Muhammadan students who have passed the First Arts Examination who would be let in and have the right to vote by virtue of this amendment, but who would be otherwise excluded. In their early years, generally speaking, the Muhammadan students are engaged in the study of Arabic, and if so they are 21 years of age by the time they have passed their First Arts Examination; so there is not likely to be much difficulty as regards the question of age: the letting in of the amendment would therefore be a distinct gain to the Muhammadan community. The pleaders of the Zilla Courts must also be those who should have passed the First Arts Examination: the amendment will favourably affect that class also. But apart from the question of nationality, and applying myself to the quality of the material let in, it appears that in point of education and therefore of intelligence and character, the persons who would acquire the franchise are in no way inferior to those who are already in. In fact the higher the educational standard, the worthier the men you get. The objections which have been urged against the acceptance of the amendment are so small that they may very well be put aside and disregarded. The difficulty to determine the equivalent examination in English and other Universities is not insurmountable and might be easily provided for and that difficulty arises in so few cases that for the sake of the few, the many need not be sacrificed; because how many students of European Universities are residents of Mufassal Municipalities. I therefore express a hope that the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill will see his way to accept the principle of this amendment. By so doing he will promote the cause of Local Self-Government in more ways than one; he will put the franchise in fitter and worthier hands in some cases. The case of failed or passed Entrance students stands on a different footing, and when their matter will be brought forward, it will, I submit, be time enough then to consider it: but in regard to the passed First Arts students, they are, from their intelligence, education and character, in every way entitled to the franchise. The principle of the amendment is fair and reasonable; its particular wording is a question to be decided hereafter."

The Hon'ble MR. DAS said:—"I also must vote for this amendment. With regard to the difficulties pointed out by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, it has been said by the Hon'ble Mr. Bose that the difficulties are of a theoretical character, and are of no practical importance. If it is necessary to extend the franchise to persons who have obtained similar honors from English Universities, in order that this new franchise may be consistently and justly extended to First Arts passed students of the Indian Universities, I do not think the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment will have any objection to such extension. Local Self-Government is in its infancy in this country. The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill supposes certain difficulties which may be met with if the franchise is extended to certain classes of men, but with all possible deference to the Hon'ble Member, I say that he has no personal experience of the difficulties met with in Mufassal Municipalities, where we have to deal with a number of voters who are wanting in intelligence. When this Bill was introduced, it was said that one of the reasons for introducing the Bill was to extend the franchise to an intelligent class of voters; and the franchise was, as proposed, extended to a class of men who have not been included, because they have the property qualification, but they seem to have been included because they have an educational qualification. That was no doubt an amendment in the right direction, and as this Bill has been amended by the Select Committee so as to extend the franchise to persons in whose case their education is a guarantee for the just exercise of the right of voting, I think it should on the same ground be extended to those who have passed the First Arts examination. I have known an instance in the Mufassal where a person who had worked for a municipality for twelve years (he occupied the position of an Executive Engineer, which went to show that he was a man who could do an immense amount of service to the municipality), stood for election as a Commissioner of that municipality, but I was the only person who voted for him. All the other electors voted for a clerk in the Commissioner's office, who was in receipt of a pay of Rs. 35 a month. And I have also known an instance where a gentleman's own coachman and durzee voted against him, because a clerk in the office told them they would have their taxes remitted if they voted for him. These are examples which show that we should encourage intelligence in votors, and I think that in the interests of Local Self-Government it is necessary that the franchise should be extended to Firt Arts students. I do not think they are in any way inferior to mukhtears in intelligence and not certainly to revenue agents, and I do not see why the franchise should not be extended to them. We have heard from the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment that a very large number of this class of intelligent men are to be found in the Mufassal, and I dare say it will be to the interest of Local Self-Government, and of the municipalities themselves, to have intelligent voters to vote for people who really take an interest, and have the ability to administer, the municipal affairs."

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY said:—"As the temper of the Council has been very distinctly indicated in this matter, I am prepared to come forward with a compromise which might possibly meet the case. I entirely admit the intelligence of the proposed class of voters. The question of age is covered by the rule which prescribes the age of 21. Perhaps the difficulty might be met by the addition of the words 'or the corresponding standard of any other University.' I accept the principle of the amendment, the exact wording of which can be settled hereafter."

The Hon'ble MR. PRATT said:—"The expression 'First Arts' examination was only applicable to the Calcutta and Madras Universities. In Bombay the corresponding standard was called the 'Previous' examination, and in the Panjab and Allahabad it was termed 'Intermediate.'"

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"If the principle of the amendment is accepted, the exact wording can be settled at a subsequent Meeting of the Council."

The further consideration of the amendment was accordingly postponed.

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 8th instant.

General Summary.—There was rain in all the reporting districts during the week, but the rainfall is still generally very deficient, except in Orissa and the south of Bengal. More rain is urgently wanted both for the bhadoi crops and for the transplantation of the winter rice. The reports from the northern districts of Bihar are very unfavourable; and unless there is heavy rain soon, fear is entertained that the result will be a great failure of the crops. The rice crop in Cuttack is reported to have been seriously damaged in many parts by the late flood. The rivers in this district are said to be again rising. Early rice and jute are being harvested, but for the latter more water is required for purposes of steeping and washing. Indigo manufacture is proceeding. Cattle-disease is still reported from Midnapore, Dinajpur, Bhagalpur, and Cuttack. In Cuttack the fodder-supply is not sufficient. The price of common rice is reported to have risen in the districts of Bihar in consequence of the prolonged drought; elsewhere the price continues steady.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers, t, thunder.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JULY 1896.

As in June, but for other reasons, the discussion of the weather conditions this year during July has to be divided into two parts—one referring to the first half of the month and the other to the latter half. The reason for the division in June was the change that became general owing to the bursting of the monsoon. In July the disturbing causes developed over the land in the early part of the month, and in the north of the Bay in the latter half. The importance of the land disturbances, as compared with those which take place over the sea, arises from the more heavy and general rain which falls in the north and centre of the Province with the former class, while with the latter the heaviest rainfall is confined to the south-west of the Province. Up to nearly the middle of the month no depression formed over the Bay, but at times there were slight depressions inland. These caused an irregular cyclonic circulation of light winds and heavy rainfall, which were most marked about the 5th and 6th and again on the 11th.

The rapid rise of pressure which followed the second of these depressions began in the north of the Province, and, extending southwards, gave rise to a shallow depression on the 13th off the coast of the Circars. By the 14th it had crossed the coast of the Circars, and the disturbance had practically ceased so far as the Bay area was concerned.

During the following week high pressure developed over Bengal and spread slowly westwards. It remained well defined till the 19th, when a fall began in the north-east of the Province and extended south-westward in much the same way as the previous rise had done. With the fairly rapid fall in the north-east a shallow depression formed, and this low-pressure area was each day farther south than the preceding one, till it was over the north of the Bay, where it remained till the end of the month. While it was over the land heavy local rainfall occurred, especially when the centre of the irregular cyclonic circulation was in East Bengal on the 21st.

Within this low-pressure area, which was a very marked feature of the pressure distribution during the last week, two cyclonic storms developed close to the head of the Bay. They followed almost exactly the same track towards the west or west-north-west, passing near Saugor Island and Balasore and across the north of Orissa. The first was well defined within that area on the 22nd and 23rd, and the second on the 26th and 27th.

Their influence on the weather in Bengal was not very great, but the continued low pressure over the north of the Bay, intensified as it was during the existence of the cyclonic storms, gave rise to strong winds over almost the whole of the Bay area and a high sea, which did not moderate till after the close of the month.

Weather conditions during the last few days of June were recovering from the effects of a cyclonic storm, and, as frequently occurs, after these disturbances the rapid rise of pressure continues till readings are relatively higher in the west than the east of the Province. This was the case on the 1st July, though not to any great extent; but westerly winds had become general over a great part of the Province, and very little rain was falling. The difference from the normal in pressure varied from excess of ·03 inch in Chota Nagpur to defect of ·05 inch in North Bengal, and mean temperature was everywhere in excess by about 2°. The westerly winds were farther east on the 2nd, and as some interaction was taking place, moderately heavy local rainfall occurred, chiefly in the central districts.

A slow fall of pressure began on the 3rd, and continuing for several days, gave rise to the first shallow depression over the land. It was very faint on the 4th, being shown more by the cyclonic circulation of winds than by differences of pressure; but it become slowly more definite, and on the 6th it was in the western half of the Province. By the 7th it had crossed Bihar, and easterly or south-easterly winds prevailed. During these days many stations reported heavy rain daily. On the 5th falls of from one to two inches were fairly general; on the 6th falls of between two and three inches occurred in the central districts; and on the 7th the heavy rainfall was confined to the north of the Province.

The slow changes of pressure had made little difference on the distribution, and on the 7th readings were slightly below the normal. A slow rise on the 8th was followed by a more decided fall on the 9th. This fall began in the east, and caused westerly winds on that day at all except the extreme eastern and northern stations. Very little rain was then falling; but as pressure became lower daily, the second depression formed, and owing to the cyclonic circulation it set up, rainfall became more frequent and heavy. On the 11th the depression was over the central districts, and on the 12th a brisk rise of pressure had driven it westward. The distribution was again normal with light general rain in all districts except Chota Nagpur.

Up to this time settled weather of the ordinary monsoon character had prevailed over the Bay. The brisk rise of pressure which began on the 12th in Bengal and continued on the 13th, accompanied, as it was, by a slow fall in the south-west of the Bay, led to the formation of a depression off the coast of the Circars. It was very shallow and of short duration, as on the 14th it had crossed the coast between Vizagapatam and Gopalpur, having caused no disturbance except rather heavy rainfall on that part of the coast.

Pressure recovered rapidly on the 15th and 16th, and high readings became general over the Province and the Bay, being most marked in the eastern districts of Bengal. This arrangement retarded the monsoon, and very little rain fell either in Burma or Bengal for several days. Winds were generally south-west over the Bay, and south or south-east in Bengal. These being the usual monsoon directions, the effect of the high pressure was shown more in the loss of strength than in any change of direction.

The first signs of a change began on the 18th, when westerly winds set in over the western districts with the exception of North Bihar, and heavy rain fell at Darjeeling. There was still high pressure everywhere, excess varying from ·1 inch in the north of the Province to nearly ·2 inch in the east of the Bay. On the 19th it was falling over the whole Province and the greater part of the Bay, nowhere rapidly, but most so in Assam and the adjacent part of North Bengal. Winds had become westerly or irregular, and light or moderate rainfall was general. On the 20th the fall of pressure continued, and again the greatest change was in the west of Assam and part of North Bengal, while a moderate rise prevailed in the west of the Bay. These changes had an important influence on the distribution. The difference from the normal on the 20th varied from excess of a fifth of an inch in the Circars to defect of ·03 inch in North Bengal, so that the gradient was now much steeper than usual from south-west to north-east. The area of greatest fall of pressure moved south-westward, and the gradient over the Bay was again steeper on the 21st; also, as the area of lowest pressure was now over Lower Bengal, heavy rain was falling at many stations in the south of the Province, especially at Chittagong, Barisal, and Ranchi. On the 22nd the southward motion of the low-pressure area was checked over the north of the Bay, where the depression deepened and a cyclonic storm developed.

As the fall of pressure on the 22nd was ·15 inch at Saugor Island and over the adjacent part of the Bay, while there was a slow rise in the west of Bihar, the depression became well defined with a considerable defect over the Sunderbans and the extreme north of the Bay. Barometric readings varied from 29·32, inches at Saugor Island to 29·946 inches at Colombo—a difference of ·625 inch, showing a steep gradient down to the south of the Bay. Stormy weather prevailed over the sea; but as the area of lowest pressure was now to the south of the Province, comparatively fine weather prevailed at inland stations, except in the south-west, where rain was falling in moderate amounts. On the 23rd the centre of the depression was near Balasore, weather being practically unchanged, and on the 24th it had passed out of the Province.

Pressure did not recover with the rapidity usual after a cyclonic storm of such intensity, and consequently a trough of low pressure remained stretching across the north of the Bay, and deepest in Orissa on the 24th. One result of this arrangement was that the winds in the east and centre of the Bay remained much above the average strength.

A slow rise of pressure on the 25th in the west of the Bay and a slow fall in the east transferred the area of lowest pressure eastward over the north of the Bay, and a second cyclonic storm began in the same place as the one preceding. It immediately began to move towards the west, and at 8 A.M. of the 27th the centre was close to Saugor Island, at which the barometric reading was 29 065 inches. At the same time the reading at Colombo was 29·862 inches, the difference being ·807 inch, nearly ·2 inch greater than in the case of the previous storm.

This greater difference was due to the steep gradient in the north-west angle of the Bay. The depression moved rapidly to the west; and though there was a very rapid rise at Saugor Island and in its immediate neighbourhood, this recovery was local, and the trough of low pressure remained. Defect on the 28th varied from ·2 inch to ·28 inch over almost the whole of the north of the Bay. Though pressure rose slowly on the three succeeding days, the distribution remained practically the same, with a steep gradient over the Bay and considerable defect in the northern part.

This last disturbance of the month was the most severe experienced during the present season, but the rainfall caused by it in Bengal was very slight owing to the low pressure which continued over the north of the Bay. This low-pressure area prevented the free flow of the monsoon current over the Province and the showery weather which generally prevails after such depressions have moved away to the west.

Pressure.—There is very little to note under this head for the early part of the month. The usual oscillations, never large, occurred. During the latter half of the month, on the other hand, the distribution was very abnormal—(1) in the high pressure prevailing during the third week; (2) in the continued low pressure during the last week, especially in the north of the Bay and in Lower Bengal.

The effect of this low pressure, notwithstanding the previous high readings, is shown in the means for the month, which are below the normal at all stations. Defect varies from ·02 inch in the north to ·05 inch in the south of the Province.

Temperature.—At the beginning of the month temperature was about 1° above the normal at all stations. At times it fell in the northern and more rarely in the western districts till readings were 1° or 2° below the normal, but there was no great change in the early part of the month. Afterwards, when the cyclonic storms occurred, there was a fall in the south-west of the Province. At the same time fine weather with comparatively cloudless skies prevailed in the north, and temperature became unusually high for the season. Towards the end of the month mean excess was as much as 6° in Bihar and 8° in part of North Bengal and Assam.

Average maximum and minimum readings for the month are nearly normal in Orissa and above the normal elsewhere by amounts increasing towards the north, where excess was 2° in the case of the former and 1°·5 for the latter. Mean excess also varied from 0 in the south of Orissa to 2° in North Bengal.

Rainfall.—The distribution of rainfall, though as usual rather irregular, did not differ to a large extent from the normal, except in the Orissa Hill Tracts, part of South Chota Nagpur, and part of East Bengal. In the two first there was a moderate to large excess, and in the last a moderate defect. The average fall in North Bengal was 17·71, Chota Nagpur 15·53, Orissa 15·26, East Bengal 12·67, South-East Bengal 12·13, and Bihar 11·67 inches. In Orissa there was an average excess of 3·59 inches, in Chota Nagpur 1·7 inches, and in North Bengal about 1 inch, while in the other divisions there was defect varying from ·65 inch in South-West Bengal to 4·89 inches in East Bengal.

Though the average fall for the whole Province was very nearly normal, the area over which amounts fell in excess of the normal is much less than half, and is largely in the west. There are two strips of country in North Bengal showing excess rainfall of from 2 to 4 inches generally. One contains the greater part of the Cooch Bihar and Jalpaiguri districts, and the other runs almost east and west from the Garo Hills to the Sonthal Parganas. The main area of excess rainfall begins from the coast of the north-west angle of the Bay, and, extending in a direction a little to the west of north, includes the greater part of Orissa, part of South-West Bengal, and the east of Chota Nagpur. Continuing northwards but narrowing rather quickly, it crosses Bihar as far as Muzaffarpur. Over the greater portion of this tract excess was between 1 and 5 inches, and the heaviest rain fell in Chota Nagpur in an area extending northwards from Singhbhum to Hazaribagh. In the part indicated by the three stations, Chaibassa, Chakradarpur, and Ranchi, excess was more than 13 inches.

In East Bengal, the Sonthal Parganas, and in the East of Bihar there are considerable areas over which defect was between 5 and 7 inches, but over the greater part of the Province, excluding the tracts dealt with in the paragraph above, defect was generally between 1 and 3 inches.

With the exception of a few stations on the Himalayas, the heavest rainfall occurred in the south-west of Singhbhum, where more than 30 inches fell. Diminishing from this centre, falls of more than 20 inches were recorded at all stations from Ranchi south to the Orissa Hills, and of more than 15 inches in the whole of Orissa, the southern half of Chota Nagpur, and part of South-West Bengal. As usual the area of lightest rain was a comparatively narrow strip, except at the eastern end, extending from East Bengal north-westwards to the west of South Bihar. Within this area falls were between 5 and 10 inches, frequently about 7 inches. In North Bihar falls were generally about 10 inches, and in North Bengal they were generally between 10 and 15 inches, except close to the hills, where they varied between 30 and 46 inches.

The following table gives a comparison of the falls in the various divisions during the month of July with the normal fall, the actual being given as a percentage of the normal fall. The table also shows the actual falls for each of the previous months of the year expressed in the same way, and the last column of the table shows the total of the falls of the past seven months of the year in each division expressed as a percentage of the normal fall :—

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of July in all districts of the Province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the weekly and monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past fifteen years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage; and the fourth column gives the same information in a slightly different form, expressing as a percentage how much the district rainfall varied in excess or in defect from the normal rainfall :—

IV.—On the endowment, if any, being paid, the Chaplain will send the application in Form A with the drawing to the Archdeacon, with an intimation that the amount of the endowment has, or has not, been deposited. If the deceased belongs to some other denomination than that of the Church of England, the Chaplain shall obtain a certificate of approval of the design from the minister of the denomination to which the deceased belonged and forward it with the application to the Archdeacon.

V.—The Archdeacon will permit the monument to be erected or refuse to do so. In the latter case the amount deposited for the endowment, if already paid, must be returned by the Chaplain to the giver.

VI.—If permission be given by the Archdeacon, the Chaplain must inform the Executive Engineer as soon as the monument is ready for erection, and the latter will see that it is properly set up, and will enter the monument upon his list for repairs by the Public Works Department.

AMOUNT OF ENDOWMENT.

VII.—An endowment fee of Rs. 15 will be charged when a person wishes to endow the simplest form of memorial (namely a cross, headstone or slab) consisting of a single stone over an adequate foundation. For more elaborate monuments the capital amounts payable for maintenance and repairs shall be 30 per cent. on the cost of the monument to be endowed.

VIII.—The endowment at 30 per cent. of cost is intended to cover the cost of ordinary annual maintenance, re-lettering and repairs, and not the risk of accidents due to floods or earthquakes or other extraordinary causes. It is open to any person to provide any larger sum entered by the Executive Engineer in column 10(b) of the application for work such as Government officers can undertake to execute.

ACCOUNTS AND ESTIMATES.

IX.—When permission has been granted for the erection and endowment (or in the case of existing monuments for the endowment only) of a monument, the Chaplain or other officer in charge of the cemetery shall enter the capital sum received under Rule III in the column "Endowment—Savings Bank" in a cash-book in Form D annexed, with the necessary particulars, and deposit the amount at once in the Savings Bank in a separate account opened for each cemetery.

But in the case of endowments in excess of 30 per cent. of the cost of the monument made under Rule VIII by persons desiring to provide a larger sum than 30 per cent., for special repairs, a separate account should be opened in the Savings Bank for each monument so endowed.

X.—The interest only on the deposit shall be used in meeting the expenditure for the repair of those monuments for whose preservation deposits have been made. In no circumstances should the capital sum be applied to meet such expenditure, nor should the interest be separate for each monument. The interest accruing on the deposits shall form a common fund to be used exclusively for the repairs of all endowed tombs.

But in the case of special endowments exceeding 30 per cent. of the cost of the monument, made under Rule VIII, the interest accruing on the deposits shall be credited to the separate account to be opened under Rule IX and used only for the repairs of the particular monument so endowed.

XI.—Joint estimates shall be framed annually by the Executive Engineer and the Chaplain (or officer in charge) of the cost of repairs of tombs, and the aggregate of the sums so estimated as required for endowed tombs shall be placed to the credit of the Executive Engineer, Public Works Department, at the Treasury, by the Chaplain or other officer in whose name the monies are in deposit at the Government Savings Bank.

Vide also Appendix A, Rule 1 (b) to Government of India, Home Department's Notification No. 103, dated the 20th June 1885.

XII.—Interest received from the Comptroller, Post Office, on Government securities purchased from the endowment money (Rule XIII) and that allowed by the Savings Bank on the deposits shall be credited in the cash-book in the column "Interest," and when any amount is withdrawn from the bank for payment to the credit of Public Works Department for the repair of the monuments, it shall be debited in a corresponding column on the charge side of the cash-book, the particulars being given in the book. The interest received from the Comptroller, Post Office, shall at once be deposited in the Savings Bank, unless it is required for immediate payment to the Public Works Department for repairs, in which case it should be paid at once into the Treasury.

XIII.—When the balance at credit of the account, exclusive of interest, exceeds Rs. 500, it may be invested in Government securities, through the Comptroller, Post Office, under Savings Bank Rules. The amount required for the purchase will, on receipt of intimation from the Comptroller, Post Office, be deducted by the local post office from the Chaplain's Savings Bank pass-book. The Chaplain will make the corresponding entries in his cash-book, by charging the cost of the investment in the column "Savings Bank" under "Endowments," and crediting per contra the nominal amount of the securities purchased in column "Securities" under "Endowment."

XIV.—At the close of each official year, the cash-book shall be closed, and the balance agreed as follows:—

(i) Endowments—

(a) Securities.—With a certificate from the Comptroller, Post Office, of the amount of securities in the custody of the Comptroller-General.

(b) Savings Bank.—With the balance of the pass-book after deducting the interest credited but not drawn.

(ii) Interest—

With the cash in hand, if any, being interest drawn but not yet disbursed (this should be avoided as far as possible towards the end of the official year), plus the amount of interest included in the Savings Bank pass-book.

XV.—A copy of this account, as closed on 31st March, should be sent to the Accountant-General, Bengal, supported by the Treasury receipts for the payments to the credit of the Executive Engineer and certified copies of intimations from the Comptroller, Post Office, showing the cost of investments in Government securities, the latter being obtained from the local Savings Bank.

ENDOWMENT OF EXISTING MONUMENTS.

XVI.—When application is made for the endowment of an existing monument, the above procedure should be followed as far as applicable. The application in Form A must be submitted to the Chaplain or other officer in charge, and forwarded by him to the Executive Engineer. The latter, besides framing an estimate of annual repairs, must estimate the cost of placing the monument upon a suitable foundation, if he is satisfied that such a foundation does not exist. On the sums thus estimated being paid, the application should be sent to the Archdeacon, and with his consent the monument will be brought on to the books of the Public Works Department. The amount paid for the foundation should be made over to the Executive Engineer, who will carry out the work without delay.

XVII.—In order that Government may know that the tombs are kept in proper repair, an Annual Report in form E should be forwarded by the Chaplain (or officer in charge) with respect to their condition, for each cemetery, to the Accountant-General, who will consolidate the returns so received and render a general return to Government.

The reports sent to the Accountant-General should contain remarks, both by the Chaplain and Executive Engineer, as to the state of the tombs for which endowments have been made.

[Sixth Publication.]

The 21st July 1896.

No. 142.—Notification.—The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal proposes to make the following modifications in rule 2 of the rules passed by him under the provisions of sections XI and XII of Act V (B.C.) of 1864 in Notification No. 151 of the 6th June 1893.

2. Vessels for the purposes of measurement of tonnage shall be divided into two classes as below :—

Class I.—To include all steamers, flats and barges, and such other square-built boats as should, in the opinion of the Supervisor, be included.

Class II.—To include all vessels of the usual native types of build.

The net tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of Act V (B.C.) of 1864 and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

Class II :—

A.—The product of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern, measured along the water-line, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the water-line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

B.—The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches; the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth.

C.—In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 12½ maunds is to be omitted. In the case of boats exceeding 500 maunds by measurement, any fraction of 100 maunds, less than 50 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 50 maunds, is to be charged as 50 maunds only.

D.—Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore and Chetla empty, for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion, as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement.

Class I :—

For Class I the tonnage, as obtained by the system of measurement for Class II, shall be increased by one-half. For vessels above 5,000 maunds measurement of this class, any fraction of 1,000 maunds, less than 500 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 500 maunds, to be charged as 500 maunds only. In the case of steamers, the tonnage determined as above shall be reduced by one-third as an allowance for engine space.

For approved Firms constantly engaged in traffic, the way-bills on board a vessel of Class I, certified to shew the total actual weight of cargo carried, will be accepted as the basis for assessment of tolls.

The notice convening the meeting having been read, and Mr. R. A. Lyall having been invited to take the Chair, it was Proposed by Mr. A. S. Lovelock,

Seconded by Babu P. C. Mookerjee,

1. That the Managing Agents' report having been taken as read, be adopted and that the accounts be passed as correct.

Carried unanimously.

Proposed by Mr. C. P. Lomax,
Seconded by Mr. R. A. Lyall,

2. That Messrs. Lovelock and Lewes be re-appointed Auditors of the Company, on a salary of Rs. 300 per audit.

Carried unanimously.

The Managing Agents informed the meeting that since the report was issued, the Oudh and Rohilkund Railway, to whom an offer to transfer the working of the line to their Company had been made, had declined to entertain the proposal, as the Government of India did not approve of their taking it up; but at the same time that Company had offered to render the Tramway all the assistance in their power in regard to repairs of rolling-stock, &c., which liberal offer the Managing Agents have gladly accepted. They further stated that the Collector of the district of Shajehanpore is interesting himself in the position of the Tramway Company, and has stated his willingness to forward to the Commissioner any reasonable proposals that the Tramway Company may have to make, and further, that he will render the Company all the local aid possible. The Managing Agents hope ere long to be able to lay a scheme before the shareholders for raising the funds necessary to place the rolling-stock in proper order, and pay off the liabilities of the Company.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Chair.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON THE GOVERNMENT CINCHONA PLANTATION AND FACTORY IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1895-96.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 18th August 1896.

RESOLUTION—No. 4618 Mis.

READ—

The Annual Report on the Government Cinchona Plantation and Factory in Bengal for the year 1895-96.

The year under review was remarkable for the drought which followed the close of the rains, a drought which is said to have been the severest on record since the plantation was started thirty-two years ago. It did considerable damage to the cinchona plants, and effectually prevented any extension being made during the cold season, although 300,000 seedlings were ready to be planted out and a large piece of land had been prepared to receive them. Thus, except for the addition of 9,200 plants of hybrid cinchona, the plantation was not increased. The number of trees uprooted for their bark was 453,000 against 498,500 in the previous year; the number comprised 65,000 red-bark trees used for the manufacture of cinchona febrifuge, and 388,000 of the kinds which yield yellow or quinine-producing bark. The result of the year's operations was that the total number of living cinchona plants at the Government plantations, excluding the nursery stock, at the close of the year, was 3,483,701.

2. The crop collected during the year amounted to 467,190 lbs. of dry bark against 500,534 lbs. in 1894-95, and consisted of 53,380 lbs. of red bark and 413,810 lbs. of yellow bark. The whole of this crop, with the exception of 790¼ lbs. supplied to medical depôts or sold to Government institutions, was, as usual, made over to the Cinchona Factory for manufacture into quinine and febrifuge. In addition to the bark cropped at the Government plantations, 170,000 lbs. of bark of the quinine-yielding sorts were purchased from certain tea companies in Darjeeling.

3. The outturn of the factory was 9,004 lbs. of sulphate of quinine and 3,124 lbs. of cinchona febrifuge, against 8,318 and 4,032 lbs. respectively in 1894-95. The following statement compares the issues of the year with those of the preceding year:—

Total ...	7,561 13½	3,276 4	10,287 2½	3,830 14

The increase of 2,725 lbs. in the issues of sulphate of quinine was caused in nearly equal proportions by the growth of the post-office demand for pice-packets, and also by the larger indents of the medical depôts in connection with the Chitral Expedition. The rise of 194 lbs. in the quantity of cinchona febrifuge purchased by the public shows that although the minor cinchona alkaloids are now sold very cheap, this preparation still ranks high as a remedy for fever. The stock of manufactured alkaloids in hand at the close of the year was 3,105 lbs.; viz., 2,357 lbs. of sulphate of quinine and 748 lbs. of cinchona febrifuge.

4. The following statement compares the receipts from the sale of sulphate of quinine, cinchona febrifuge, cinchona bark, and other products of the plantation during the last two years:—

Excluding Rs. 73,025 which was paid on account of the last instalment of the purchase-money of the Nimbong Cinchona Plantation, and Rs. 34,000 paid for the purchase of bark from the Darjeeling Tea and Cinchona Association, the expenditure on the plantation amounted to Rs. 79,865 against Rs. 73,806 in the previous year, the increase being chiefly under contingent expenditure incurred on the transport of bark from Nimbong. The amount spent on account of the factory rose from Rs. 35,700 to Rs. 41,811, which was chiefly due to the extensive purchase of chemicals during the year In addition to the factory expenditure proper, a sum of Rs. 21,171 was paid for the purchase and transport from the Madras Government Factory, Ootacamund, of 1,500 lbs. of quinine required to meet the increased demand for pice-packets.

6. The net profit on the working of the plantations amounts to Rs. 4,598 against Rs. 7,705 in the previous year. As the capital cost of the plantations has long ago been paid off, and Government desires only to secure for the people, without loss to itself, a cheap remedy for fever, the Lieutenant-Governor considers this result entirely satisfactory.

7. The scheme for the sale of Government quinine, through the medium of the Postal Department, makes steady progress. The amount delivered to the Jail Department, for conversion into pice-packets, was 3,170 lbs. against 2,025 lbs. in 1894-95. The demand for this quinine has increased with such rapidity that it has been necessary to limit the sale to post-offices in Bengal and Assam, and to discontinue the regular supply to other Provinces. The working of the scheme has been reviewed at some length in the Jail Report for 1895 and in the Resolution recorded thereon, and attention was drawn in the Resolution on the Sanitary Commissioner's report to the general correspondence between fever mortality and the demand for quinine.

8. The acknowledgments of the Lieutenant-Governor are again due to Dr. King and Mr. Gammie for the efficient management of the Department during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE INCOME-TAX DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEAR 1895-96.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—SEPARATE REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 20th August 1896.

RESOLUTION—No. 4558S.R.

Read—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the financial results of the Administration of the Income-tax for the year 1895-96.

No change of any importance was made during the year in the administration of the Income-Tax. The following statement compares the financial results during the last two years:—

	1894-95. Persons.	1895-96 Persons.
Number of persons originally assessed, excluding Government servants	108,765	110,584
Number of persons finally assessed, excluding Government servants	106,975	108,901
Number of persons finally assessed, including Government servants	115,583	117,639
Number of assessees, including Government servants, who paid the tax within the year	112,874	114,820
	Rs.	Rs.
Final demand of income-tax for the current year	44,87,280	46,44,587
Final demand, including penalties, fines, and arrears of previous years	47,20,384	48,14,912
Collections of income-tax within the year ...	43,95,230	45,14,456
Gross receipts	45,61,118	46,58,323
Charges	1,75,703	1,81,774
Percentage of charges on receipts ...	3·9	3·9
Net revenue	43,85,415	44,76,549

The net revenue shows an increase of Rs. 91,134 or 2·08 per cent., against an increase of Rs. 2,13,234 or 5·1 per cent. in the previous year. Including advance payments and excess collections, and making allowance for various adjustments, the actual receipts at the close of the year amounted to Rs. 46,58,323 against Rs. 45,61,118 in the previous year. The receipts on account of the current demand for 1895-96 amounted to Rs. 45,43,598, which is Rs. 1,22,986 in excess of similar receipts in the previous year.

3. The increase in the final demand occurred in every district except in Monghyr, Murshidabad, Cuttack, Patna, Bogra, Hazaribagh, Khulna, Palamau, Malda, Tippera, Rajshahi, Lohardaga, and the 24-Parganas, and is ascribed by the Board to the discovery of new assessees and enhanced assessments in towns and centres of trade. In some cases, however, special causes have been at work. Thus in Manbhum the development of coal mining in the north of the district, and in Darjeeling a prosperous tea season and great activity in the building trade, enhanced taxable incomes and brought in new assessees; while in Dacca an increase of 24·5 per cent. was mainly due to fluctuations in the profits of the jute trade from year to year. The causes assigned for the instances of decrease are various, but in no district does the percentage of decrease exceed three, except in Cuttack and Monghyr, which show a decline of 3·9 and 3·08 per cent., respectively. These causes scarcely call for comment, except in Khulna and Palamau, where the decrease was due to large exemptions on revision, consequent on careless assessments made in previous years.

4. Demand, collections, and balances.—The following statement shows the original demand, the revised demand, and the percentage of collections from assessees, exclusive of Government servants:—

Year.	Original number of assessees.	Revised number of assessees.	Original demand.	Final demand after revision.	Amount of final demand collected.	Percentage of final demand collected.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
			Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1894-95	108,765	106,975	40,73,041	39,73,351	38,80,301	97·7
1895-96	110,584	108,901	42,28,030	41,32,282	40,02,151	96·9

The outstanding balance at the close of the year, including penalties, &c., aggregated Rs. 1,64,461 against Rs. 1,62,002 in 1894-95. Of this balance, Rs. 81,100 are reported to be good and under realization, Rs. 57,085 doubtful, and Rs. 25,376 bad and irrecoverable.

5. The districts which succeeded in collecting the entire demand within the year were Burdwan, Bankura, Murshidabad, Faridpur, Tippera, Noakhali, Patna, and Malda, the last three of which did equally well in the previous year. The collections on account of current and arrear demand, including tax, penalties, &c., were below 95 per cent. in the following districts:—

Dinajpur ...	... 94·1	Darbhanga ...	... 90·9
Calcutta ...	... 92·2	24-Parganas ...	... 84·9
Muzaffarpur ...	... 92	Singhbhum ...	... 73·6

These districts failed to attain the prescribed standard in 1894-95. Two of them, Calcutta and Darbhanga, were also unable to collect 95 per cent. of the current demand of tax only. No explanation is furnished of the short collections, except in Darbhanga and Calcutta: in Darbhanga this is attributed to the non-payment of the tax by several European employés of the Darbhanga Raj and of indigo factories, and in Calcutta to unavoidable delay in completing the assessment of certain large native firms and of some house-property in selected areas. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the Board will continue to impress on the officers engaged in the administration of the tax the importance of making timely assessments and enforcing prompt payments so as to get in the bulk of the current demand within the year.

6. Assessments.—The number of assessors employed was 49—the same as in 1894. These assessors visited 69,450 villages (including streets in Calcutta) against 68,461 in 1894-95. The number of persons finally assessed was 108,901 against 106,975, showing an increase of 1·8 per cent. Calcutta, where the numbers in the preceding year fell off by 208, heads the list with an increase of 319: Midnapore and Gaya, with an increase of 308 and 283 respectively, occupy the second and third places. A few districts show a reduction, but this nowhere exceeds 59, except in Khulna and Tippera, where the decrease was 199 and 100, respectively. The decline in Khulna is attributed to exemptions on revision due to faulty assessments in previous years: the decrease in Tippera, which had showed a falling off of 184 persons in the previous year, has not been explained.

7. Objections.—The following table gives statistics of objections to assessment:—

Year.	Number originally assessed, excluding Government servants.	Number of objections	Percentage of objections.	Number of successful objections.	Percentage of successful to total number of objections, column 5 to column 3.
1	2	3	4	5	6
1894-95 ...	108,765	10,635	9·8	3,486	32·8
1895-96 ...	110,584	10,797	9·8	3,362	31·1

The percentage of objections to assessments was again highest in Gaya (36·9). The percentage of successful objections exceeded 40 in Cuttack (55·2), Calcutta (44·5), 24-Parganas (42·8), and Burdwan (42·7). These figures show a slight improvement on the results obtained in 1894, but the need for great care in supervising the work of the assessors, while the assessments are being revised, must not be lost sight of.

8. Incidence of the tax.—Excluding the tax on interest of Government securities and the salaries of Government officials, the average incidence of the tax in the whole Province was Re. 1 to every 17·2 persons, against 17·9 persons in the preceding year. Outside Calcutta, the average incidence was Re. 1 to 33·7 persons, against Re. 1 to 34·9 in 1894-95. Darjeeling continues to show the highest mufassal average, Re. 1 to every 4 persons; while the incidence was lowest in Singhbhum, Re. 1 to 87 persons. The average incidence in Calcutta was Re. 1 to every ·4 person, and 1 person in every 39 was assessed to the tax. The proportion of person assessed for the whole of Bengal was 1 to 653 against 1 to 665 in the previous year

9. The following statement illustrates for the year under review and for previous years the distribution of the income-tax and of the other direct taxes which preceded it as between Calcutta and the rest of the province:—

* Figures not available.
† Exclusive of the tax on salaries, &c,, recovered by the Accountant-General and the tax on the interest of Government securities.

The figures show a steady increase in collections, both in Calcutta and in the mufassal since 1887-88, Calcutta contributing in the past year 48·4 per cent. of the whole.

10. Coercive measures.—The coercive measures which had to be taken for the realization of the tax are compared for the last three years in the following statement:—

Year.	Number of persons finally assessed.	Distress warrants.		Cases of distraint.		Cases of sale.
		Number.	Percentage to column 2.	Number.	Percentage to column 2.	Number.	Percentage to column 2.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
1893-94 ...	105,476	5,920	5·6	2,290	2·2	288	·3
1894-95 ...	106,975	5,035	4·7	1,934	1·8	337	·3
1895-96 ...	108,901	5,636	5·2	2,173	2·	317	·3

The number of distress warrants issued was larger than in the previous year, but the cases in which actual sale was resorted to fell from 337 to 317. In Darbhanga, Purnea, Gaya, Jalpaiguri, Singbhum, Jessore, and the 24-Parganas, the proportion of warrants issued exceeded 10 per cent. of the number of persons assessed. The last three districts showed a high percentage in 1894-95 also. In 12 districts no sales of distrained property took place, while such sales were again most numerous in Jessore, Gaya, and Rangpur. In Calcutta distress warrants were issued in 684 cases against 736 in the previous year, and in one case only was also found necessary. Ignorance and wilful recusancy on the part of assessees no doubt account for a large proportion of the warrants issued, but it is obvious that the earlier the assessments are completed the less need will there be for coercive measures, which are often resorted to somewhat at random towards the close of the year in order to get in the demand.

11. Under section 9 (2) of the Income Tax Act, a small commission, varying with the date of payment, is allowed to managers of companies, or other employers of labour who collect the tax from their employés on behalf of Government. The total amount of tax collected in this manner was Rs. 2,74,243 against Rs. 2,68,234 in the previous year, and the number of companies, &c., who undertook to collect the tax also rose from 303 to 318. Ten of these, however, failed to collect the tax which was realized by the district officers. It is not suggested that the present rate of commission is inadequate, but where the number of taxable servants is small it is not worth the employer's while to undertake the work of collection.

12. Expenditure.—The total expenditure rose from Rs. 1,75,703 in 1894-95 to Rs. 1,81,774 in the year under review. The rise is due partly to increase in establishments rendered necessary by increased work and partly to the accident of certain travelling bills for 1894-95 having been cashed during the year under review.

13. The system of payment of income-tax by money-order is said to be still rising in public favour as a simple and safe method of remitting the tax. One trifling embezzlement occurred, and that was due to neglect of rules on the part of the assessee. Under an order issued in October 1894, income-tax assessors are required to learn the numerals of any native character in which accounts are usually kept in the district in which they are employed, so as to enable them to form fair estimates of the income of traders whose accounts are kept in that language. With the exception of the Assessor of Cuttack who has not yet mastered the Telugu numerals, all the assessors have complied with these orders. The Board's proposal that the assessors should further learn not only the numerals but the languages in which accounts are kept in their districts, should be separately submitted for the orders of Government.

14. The names of the Deputy Collectors specially reported by the Board as having done good service, will be communicated to the Appointment Department.

15. On the subject of popular feeling in regard to the tax, the Lieutenant-Governor has nothing to add to the remarks recorded by Sir Charles Elliott in the concluding paragraph of the Resolution on the last year's report.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE TRIENNIAL REPORT OF THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER FOR BENGAL ON THE WORKING OF THE VACCINATION DEPARTMENT DURING THE YEARS 1893-94, 1894-95 AND 1895-96.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION.

Calcutta, the 24th August 1896.

RESOLUTION—No. 3669S.

READ—

The Triennial Report of the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal on the working of the Vaccination Department during the three years 1893-94, 1894-95, and 1895-96.

This Triennial Report, which is the third of its kind, was due to Government on the 15th June, but wat not received until the 27th July. No reason is assigned for the delay. Surgeon-Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. Gregg was in charge of the Department from the 1st April to the 1st May 1893, when he went on furlough for six months, and Surgeon-Captain H. J. Dyson, who was transferred from the Sanitary Department of the Punjab, officiated for him. This officer was in charge of the Department from the 2nd May to the 1st November 1893. Dr. Gregg resumed charge on the 2nd November 1893, and held it till the 25th August 1895, when he vacated the appointment and Dr. Dyson succeeded him. The latter officer, who submits the report, was thus in charge of the Vaccination Department during the first six and the last six months of the period under review.

The fluctuations which the table discloses in the numbers of the subordinate establishments are due mainly (1) to the provision made for extra supervision in the Orissa Tributary States; (2) to the employment for the first time of special establishments paid by the District Boards of Puri and Noakhali and by zamindars in Tippera; (3) to the appointment of a small extra Government staff in certain districts where small-pox broke out; and (4) to the creation of the new district of Angul. In point of numbers the superior staff, consisting of Civil Surgeons and Deputy Sanitary Commissioners, remained practically unaltered, but the Sanitary Commissioner observes that the systematic working of the department was greatly interfered with by the frequent shifting of individual officers, especially of the three Deputy Sanitary Commissioners, among whom no less than eleven changes occurred in 1893-94.

3. Number of operations and average per operator.—The total number of vaccinations performed rose from 1,841,304 in 1893-94 to 2,174,097 in 1894-95 and 2,277,081 in 1895 96, while the yearly average for the period 1893-96 was 2,098,494 against 1,770,492 in 1890-93, giving an increase of 328,002. The average per operator also rose from 560 in 1893-94 to 608 in 1894 95 and 622 in 1895 96. The increase in the yearly average is shared by 35 districts, including Calcutta and the Tributary States of Orissa and Chota Nagpur. It was highest in the following districts :—

Dacca	... 59,927	Noakhali	... 20,897
Darbhanga	... 42,708	Backerguuge	... 20,727
Mymensingh	... 35,586	Faridpur	... 19,382

Fourteen districts show a falling off, the decline being largest in—

Cuttack	... 16,222	Manbhum	... 5,988
Pabna	... 6,666	Hooghly	... 4,442
Rajshahi	... 3,339

In Cuttack the large decrease is said to have been due to a strike among the vaccinators in 1892-93 in consequence of the reluctance of the people to pay their fees This reduced their number from 100 to 12, and although the strength has since risen to 48, it still falls short of the needs of the district. In Pabna the Civil Medical Officer refers to the greater unhealthiness of the people as accounting for the decline in vaccination. In Manbhum the decrease is attributed to three causes, viz. (1) to the scarcity which prevailed in the district in 1893-94; (2) to less populous and more jungly tracts having been taken up for vaccination; and (3) to the excessive prevalence of measles in 1895-96. An unusual outbreak of malarial fever, especially among children, is said to have been one of the causes of the reduction of vaccinations in Hooghly. In Rajshahi the falling off is ascribed to a smaller number of persons being available for vaccination and the prevalence of malaria in the district. In rural areas the average number of operations per man was 612 against 665 in 1890-93: this decrease is attributed to the employment, since the reorganization of the department, of a large number of apprentices who do less work than the regular vaccinators. The average has also been affected by the inclusion of vaccinators paid by Government or the District Board, who worked for short periods during the prevalence of small-pox.

4. Protection afforded to infants.—In paragraph 6 of the report a statement is given showing the degree of protection afforded to infants under one year of age, which, as has often been pointed out, is the proper test of the working of the Department. The total number of such infants available for vaccination during 1895-96 was estimated at 2,460,469 against 2,491,305 in the preceding year, and of these, 416,307, or 169·19 per thousand, were successfully vaccinated, as compared with 405,065, or 162·59 per thousand in 1894-95. The proportion of infants successfully vaccinated per thousand of population in 1892-93, the last of the previous triennial period, was 125·49 only, so that a distinct advance has been made during the past three years. The Malda and Darjeeling districts head the list with 712·49 and 700·68 successful operations, respectively, out of every thousand of the available infant population. Next in order comes Lohardaga with 641·71 per mille. Gaya, Cuttack, and Patna stand lowest with 37·72, 30·29 and 26·52, respectively, per mille The statistics, however, vary so greatly that their accuracy cannot be wholly relied on, and it seems probable that in many districts the proportion of infants protected has been overstated.

5. Primary vaccinations.—The average ratio per cent. of successful cases for the entire Province for the three years is returned at 95·38 against 99·26 in the previous triennial period. The Sanitary Commissioner ascribes this incredibly high percentage to the dishonest practice, believed to have been in force in Bengal for many years, and strongly condemned in paragraph 5 of last year's Resolution, of excluding unsuccessful cases from the returns, and even of entering absolute or partial failures as successful vaccinations. Dr. Dyson goes on to show, by statistics laid before the Royal Commission on vaccination, that the degree of protection afforded by vaccination bears a definite relation to the number of successful vaccination marks, and for this reason he recommends that in future three punctures should be made in each arm, as is the practice in the Panjab, and that the vaccination returns should show exactly in how many points each case of vaccination has been successful. The Lieutenant-Governor accepts this recommendation, and desires the Sanitary Commissioner to submit for the approval of Government a draft of the instructions which he proposes to issue on the subject.

6. Secondary operations.—The average ratio per cent. of successful secondary operations in rural areas for the entire Province for the triennial period was 60·07 against 52·81 in the preceding triennial period, and in municipalities 53·79 against 38·70. Here again the percentages of successful cases seem rather high, and their accuracy is questionable. In connection with this subject, the Sanitary Commissioner refers to the almost complete suppression of small-pox in Germany, which has been brought about by the introduction in 1874 of compulsory vaccination for infants and of revaccination for all school children in their twelfth year, and urges that all boys at school and all young men entering Government service should be vaccinated or revaccinated, as the case may be. The proposal should be submitted to Government through the Director of Public Instruction.

7. Recess work.—The average number of operations performed during the recess in connection with small-pox epidemic rose from 75,357 in 1890-93 to 110,541 in 1893-96. This increase is attributed to increased activity shown in vaccinating whole communities on the slightest outbreak of small-pox, instead of, as before, only those residing in the immediate neighbourhood of the persons attacked. It is also stated that many municipalities now carry on vaccination all the year round.

8. Vaccination at the expense of District Boards.—The number of vaccinators employed by District Boards and paid from District Funds rose from 37 in 1893-94 to 39 in 1894-95 and to 67 in 1895-96, and the total number of persons vaccinated by them from 13,086 in 1893-94 to 27,061 in 1894-95 and to 59,060 in 1895-96. The contributions made by District Boards towards vaccination in rural areas also increased from Rs. 654 in 1893-94 to Rs. 3,279 in 1895-96. The largest contribution during the past year was made by the District Board of Puri, viz. Rs. 1,148. Among the other District Boards, Tippera contributed Rs. 500, Gaya Rs. 450, Chittagong Rs. 384, Dacca Rs. 317, Backergunge Rs. 300, Bogra Rs. 91, and Bankura Rs. 88. Provisions have been inserted in the Bill to amend the Local Self-Government Act, which will legalise the action of these Boards and will enable other District Boards to devote a portion of their funds to providing free vaccination in those parts of their districts where, for special reasons, the system of licensed vaccination is found to be unpopular.

9. Cost of vaccination.—The total cost of vaccination during the year 1895-96 was Rs. 2,09,480 as against Rs. 1,95,218 in 1894-95 and Rs. 1,80,199 in 1893-94. The average cost of each reported successful vaccination was the same during the past two years, viz. 1 anna 6 pies, as against 1 anna 7 pies in 1893-94.

10. Death-rate from small-pox and proportion of population protected.—The usual diagram illustrating the death-rate from small-pox in each district, as compared with the proportion of population protected by vaccination, is given. It shows that, as a general rule, small-pox is comparatively low in places where vaccination is actively carried on, and vice versâ. The total number of deaths from small-pox during 1895-96 was 13,080 as against 9,562 in 1894-95 and 12,499 in 1893-94, or ·18 per thousand of population, as compared with ·13 in 1894-95 and ·17 in 1893-94. The following districts had the highest mortality:—

Midnapore	...	...	...	...	1,734
Cuttack	...	...	...	...	1,505
Patna	...	...	...	...	1,160
Faridpur	...	...	...	...	1,106
Calcutta	...	...	...	...	1,010

Singhbhum and Jalpaiguri returned only two deaths, Rajshahi three, Lohardaga four, and Malda and Darjeeling five each.

11. Methods of vaccination.—The Sanitary Commissioner as usual furnishes a statement which purports to show the comparative efficacy of the three methods of vaccination practised in Bengal, viz., (1) with vaccine lymph obtained direct from the calf, (2) with vaccine lymph prepared with lanoline, and (3) with human lymph taken by arm-to-arm transfer. But, as he remarks, the value of the statement is reduced by the fact that in the case of the arm-to-arm method repetitions are included and unsuccessful operations excluded from the returns. On the advantages of using vaccine rather than human lymph, Dr. Dyson observes :—

"Speaking, from personal experience extending over six years in other provinces, of all these methods of vaccination, I have no hesitation in pronouncing very decidedly in favour of vaccination direct from the calf. I see it stated in previous reports of this Department that lymph 'when properly procured by the arm-to-arm process and from healthy children, is of equal value to the lymph procured direct from calves.' I am not prepared to admit this; but even supposing it to be the case, the difficulty is always to procure healthy subjects. Invariably, the children used as vaccinifers are low caste and unhealthy. No woman of the well-to-do classes will allow her child to be used as a vaccinifer. On the other hand, the advantages of vaccination direct from the calf are distinct, and obviously superior to any other kind of lymph. In the first place, the lymph is pure, the only danger being from tuberculosis, which, however, is not a common disease among cattle in this country; secondly, this source of supply is practically inexhaustible; and, thirdly, the poorer people are not harassed to supply their babies as vaccinifers, which is an important consideration. The advantages of direct calf-vaccination are so great, that it is fast gaining a strong foothold in the public estimation. Three years ago when I was officiating as Sanitary Commissioner of these provinces, and suggested this idea for mufassal towns and rural areas, there was immediately a storm of opposition; religious prejudices were put forward, and the impossibility of inducing the people to give up their calves temporarily was said to be insuperable. Judicious perseverance, however, in some places, in accordance with my expressed conviction that it would succeed, has gained the day, and I now find on returning to Bengal that there is scarcely any prejudice in the northern, eastern and lower districts of the Province."

Lanoline lymph is said to be very useful in starting vaccination, and also in times of emergency, such as sudden outbreaks of epidemic small-pox, and it is for this reason chiefly that a supply of it ought to be maintained.

12. It was stated in the last Resolution that arrangements had been made to provide the Nepal Darbar with a regular supply of vaccine lymph from the Darjeeling depôt. Of the lymph sent last year three consignments out of five proved inert owing to the change of temperature, but 694 persons in all were vaccinated, 573 being successful. The Medical Officer in charge of the Bir Hospital, Nepal, has taught the arm-to-arm method to a number of vaccinators, who will commence work next season, and it is stated that there is no immediate necessity for supplying fresh lymph. Should such necessity arise, the Sanitary Commissioner will no doubt be able to meet the requirements of the Darbar.

13. Attitude of the people.—The Sanitary Commissioner reports that in Bengal the people seem to be gradually realising the benefits of vaccination, but that there are still places where vaccination is opposed chiefly on sentimental grounds. A considerable step in advance has been made in Faridpur by Dr. Deare, Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, who induced 36,240 Ferazi Muhammadans, including the leaders of the community, to submit to vaccination with lanoline lymph. A full account of Dr. Deare's operations forms an appendix to the report. The Lieutenant-Governor's acknowledgments are due to him, and also to Maulvi Fazl-ul-Karim, Subdivisional Officer of Madaripur, for the tact and perseverance with which they managed to overcome the prejudice which has long been a serious obstacle to the spread of vaccination in Eastern Bengal.

14. Inspections.—The Sanitary Commissioner remarks that the inspections made by Deputy Sanitary Commissioners were on the whole not as numerous as they should have been, but he adds that they have to inspect the remote parts of the districts, while Civil Surgeons visit places comparatively easy of access. The increased activity on the part of Civil Surgeons noticed in the last year's report, was maintained in 1895. The largest amount of inspections was made by Dr. Peck, Civil Surgeon of Muzaffarpur, who inspected 13,997 operations. Dr. Russell, of Dacca, comes next with 13,487 inspections, and is followed by the Civil Surgeons of Saran, Mymensingh and Monghyr, with 11,892, 11,865 and 11,479 inspections, respectively. Twelve Civil Surgeons inspected more than 5,000 operations, and thirty one from 1,000 to 5,000, while the officers in charge of the 24-Parganas, Faridpur, the Chittagong Hill Tracts and Angul inspected less than 1,000. The amount of inspection done by Inspectors and Sub-Inspectors varied greatly from district to district. While the Inspector at Dacca inspected 72,331 out of 141,822 operations performed in the district, the Inspector at Howrah could not manage to inspect as many as 10,000 operations. The special attention of the Civil Surgeons should be drawn to the matter.

FINAL FORECAST OF THE JUTE CROP FOR 1896

THE following is published for general information.

REVENUE DEPT., The 25th August 1896.

M. FINUCANE, Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FINAL FORECAST OF THE JUTE CROP FOR SEASON 1896.

(Up to the middle of August.)

1. Explanatory.—The form in which the final report now appears differs in a few particulars from the form used in previous years, the chief difference consisting in the substitution of the "average acreage of two previous years" for "normal acreage" in column 4. It is hoped that a comparison of the current year's crop with the average of previous years will enable a better idea to be formed of the nature of the present crop than any comparison with the so-called "normal acreage," about the meaning of which term much uncertainty exists.

2. Season.—The character of the early part of the current jute season was described in the preliminary forecast issued on the 23rd June 1896, as being generally of a much less favourable character than that of the year 1895; but it was noted that the outturn would depend very much on the rainfall in the two months between the middle of June and the middle of August. Unfortunately the rainfall in all the important jute-growing districts during this period has fallen considerably short of the normal, and the present season has proved unfavourable to the jute crop in many ways. Want of rain was felt in March and April, when land is usually prepared for jute, and much of the crop is also sown in chur and other low-lying lands. In May and the early part of June excessive rainfall interfered with the growth of the seedlings and also with weeding operations. And now deficiency of rainfall in July and August has still further reduced the prospects of the crop in most of the important jute-growing districts, and in some places has interfered with steeping. The crop is also reported to have suffered to some extent from want of flood water in Dacca and Tippera, and from the ravages of insects in Nadia, Jessore, Pabna, Dacca and Faridpur. And it seems doubtful whether heavy rain now will save the prospects of the crop.

3. Area cultivated.—The total area under jute in the current year is estimated at 2,220,400 acres against 2,242,700 acres estimated to have been cropped in 1895. The decrease of 22,300 acres is nominal.

4. Character of the crop.—The deficiency of rainall during the last two months, which has been referred to abo has caused a reduction in the preliminary estimates in many of the most important jute-growing districts, notably in Tippera, Pabna, Rangpur and Mymensingh. Only two (Rajshahi and Purnea) of the eleven principal jute districts return a 15-anna crop, only one (Tippera) a 14-anna crop, and the rest estimate the crop at from 10 to 12 annas. The mean outturn for the Province, obtained from the district reports, stands at 12 annas as against a mean outturn of $15\frac{1}{3}$ annas in 1895.

5. Gross outturn of the crop.—As suggested by the Chamber of Commerce in a recent letter, the factors which determine the exportable balance of bales, such as the amount locally consumed, and the amount taken by Indian mills, are so uncertain and variable that it is safest to let those interested in the trade make their own calculations from a rough estimate of the total crop.

The gross outturn of the present jute crop would appear, from the appended district returns, to amount to about $49\frac{3}{4}$ lakhs of bales, as against $64\frac{1}{4}$ lakhs estimated as the produce in 1895, and $55\frac{3}{4}$ lakhs suggested as the average outturn of the two years 1893 and 1894.

This calculation is based on the assumption that 1,200 lbs or three bales may be taken as the rough average or 16-anna outturn from one acre for all jute districts in Bengal. Experiments are being conducted to determine this figure more exactly, but for the present this is the estimate which approximates most nearly to the reports on outturn which have been received in this Department.

The timely rainfall of the present year has had a good effect on the crop, and the outturn, though estimated at three-fourths of the average, is likely to prove a little higher. It is curious that though the season has been more favourable, the area sown has been reported as less than last year's.

REPORT ON THE STATE OF THE SALT MARKET FOR THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1896-97.

No. 741B., dated Calcutta, the 14th August 1896.

From—E. H. WALSH, Esq., Offg. Secretary to the Board of Revenue, L.P.,

SALT.

THE HON'BLE MR. W. H. GRIMLEY.

I AM directed to submit the following report on the state of the salt market for the first quarter of 1896-97, comprising the months of April, May, and June 1896.

2. The quantity of salt of every description cleared during the quarter under review, amounted to 28,43,269 maunds, against 24,00,904 maunds in the previous quarter, and 28,04,085 maunds in the corresponding quarter of the previous year; and the net amount of duty levied thereon, was Rs. 68,06,060, against Rs. 54,88,437 in the previous quarter, and Rs. 66,34,015 in the corresponding quarter of the previous year. In all cases fractions are omitted.

3. The quantity of locally-made salt removed from the golas in Orissa during the quarter under review, and the quantity which remained in store at the close of the quarter, are shown below in table I:—

The total sales of locally-made salt during the quarter under review amounted to 18,130 maunds, against 19,275 maunds in the previous quarter, and 17,932 maunds in the corresponding quarter of the previous year. Duty was levied during the quarter on the full quantity sold.

4. The subjoined table shows in detail the importations into the port of Calcutta and the total clearances of sea-imported salt during the quarter under review, as compared with the figures of the corresponding quarters of the previous two years:—

The stock in bond at the close of the quarter was reduced to half of what it was at the close of the previous quarter, owing to heavy deliveries from the golas during the period under review. The shipments of salt for Calcutta, as noted in paragraph 9, have, however, considerably advanced, being almost double of what they were during the previous quarter.

6. The despatches of salt from Calcutta by water and the three railways passing the several pass-stations into the interior of the country both east and west of the river Hooghly, as well as the despatches by steamers and flats during the quarter under review and the corresponding quarters of the previous two years, are shown in the table below:—

The decrease in the quantity of duty-paid salt despatched to Orissa is counterbalanced by the increased transactions in bonded salt shown in table VI, paragraph 11.

7. The quantity of salt despatched by the East Indian Railway to the stations beyond Buxar during the quarter under review, amounted to 7,495 maunds 20 seers, as noted in the margin, against 33,347 maunds 10 seers in the previous quarter, and 5,622 maunds 10 seers in the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

General Summary.—There was general and heavy rain over the greater part of the Province during the week. In Northern and Eastern Bengal more rain is still required for the transplantation of winter rice and for the steeping and washing of jute. In Bihar, where the crops had been suffering from a prolonged drought, the heavy rain of the week has put an end to all anxiety, and the transplantation of paddy is now in full swing. In parts of the Bhagalpur Division, however, more rain is still said to be required. The harvesting of early rice and jute and the manufacturing of indigo are in progress. No cattle-disease is reported. The price of common rice in Bihar, which had risen in consequence of the drought, is now beginning to fall. No report has been received from Cuttack.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

The 1st September 1896.

No. 166.—Notification.—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to make the following modifications in rule 2 of the rules passed by him under the provisions of sections XI and XII of Act V (B.C.) of 1864 in Notification No. 151 of the 6th June 1893, with effect from 1st October 1896.

22nd and 29th July, and 5th, 12th, 19th and 26th August 1896.

A draft of the modifications was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the dates noted in the margin as notification No. 142, dated the 21st July 1896.

2. Vessels for the purposes of measurement of tonnage shall be divided into two classes as below :—

Class I.—To include all steamers, flats and barges, and such other square-built boats as should, in the opinion of the Supervisor, be included.

Class II.—To include all vessels of the usual native types of build.

The net tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of Act V (B.C.) of 1864 and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements :—

Class II :—

A.—The product of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern, measured along the water-line, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the water-line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

B.—The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches; the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth.

C.—In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 12½ maunds is to be omitted. In the case of boats exceeding 500 maunds by measurement, any fraction of 100 maunds, less than 50 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 50 maunds, is to be charged as 50 maunds only.

D.—Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore and Chetla empty, for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion, as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement.

Class I :—

For Class I the tonnage, as obtained by the system of measurement for Class II, shall be increased by one-half. For vessels above 5,000 maunds measurement of this class, any fraction of 1,000 maunds, less than 500 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 500 maunds, to be charged as 500 maunds only. In the case of steamers, the tonnage determined as above shall be reduced by one-third as an allowance for engine space.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made); packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties an uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 699 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

May 6th	151	8vo dy	1st...	500	Printed.	1 0 0	.....	An historical drama in imitation of Shakespear's Hamlet. The scene is laid in Kashmir and the plot is as follows :— Jayákar, commander-in-chief of Kásmir, falls in love with the queen Srílekhá, and murders King Ananta Deva by administering poison, while he was a guest in his house. The king's spirit rises from the burning pyre, informs his son Hariráj of Jayákar's treachery, and adjures him to take vengeance on the murderer but to spare the queen. In due course, Hariráj ascends the throne, but absorbed in the contemplation of his mother's shame and the vow of vengeance on his father's murderer, he loses all interest in the affairs of existence. His apathy turns his affianced bride Aruná mad. The queen-mother, whom in a secret interview Hariráj severely reprimanded for her faithlessness, now plots with Jayákar against her son's life. Under a forged letter, purported to have been written by his intimate friend Ajit, the king was invited into a garden and there stabbed in the dark by Jayákar. The murderer, however, falls by the sword of the king and Anantadeva's death is avenged. The queen-mother, in a momentary fit of affection for her son, stabs her prostrate paramour and then plunges into the river. Hariráj's death follows, and the sight kills his affianced bride Aruná. Her death brings the drama to a close. The book is written in blank verse and not wanting in merit. The writer has freely drawn on Shakespeare for expression and imagery.	3848
April 13th	112	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	0 8 0	The Author, 30, Narkeldánga, Sastitálá Lane, Calcutta.	A drama based on the incidents of a Mahratta raid on Mewar led by Kálabhoj. Vijay was Kálabhoja's friend and disciple in arms; bu disgusted with his cruelty, he went over to the Rajputs and led them against his countrymen. His brother general was Bhim Sing, who very generously allowed him to marry Nilánjana, who had been previously affianced to himself. Kálabhoj had vowed vengeance on Vijay. In the battle which followed, the Rajputs were victorious, but their leader Vijay was taken captive and sentenced to death as a traitor to his country by Kálabhoj. But before the sentence could be carried out, he was rescued from the prison through the efforts of Lál Bái, the kind-hearted mistress of Kálabhoj and of Bhim Sing, who forced his friend to leave his cell and took his place there. Bhim Sing was forgiven by Kálabhoj, but while returning home from the Mahratta camp he fell mortally wounded by Mahratta bullets. Vijay now sought a duel with Kálabhoj, in the course of which the latter was stabbed to death by his mistress Lál Bái, whom he had condemned to death. The plot, though not properly developed, is not uninteresting.	3849
April 6th	142	8vo dy	1st...	500	ditto ...	1 0 0	The Author, Shahzadpur, Pabna.	A mythological drama, based on the Brahma Vaivartta Purána, describing the defeat and death of the demon Sankhachuda at the hands of the god Siva. Sankhachuda was in his previous birth a friend of Srí Krishna, and his birth as a demon was due to the imprication of Rádhiká.	3850
Jan. 28th	146	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	1 0 0	Yatindra Nath Mitra, Hari Ghosh's Street, Calcutta.	This is a drama depicting the evils of the practice, now unhappily too common among the upper classes of the Bengali Hindu society, of the fathers of boys to demand large dowries on the occasion of marrying their sons. The plot is as follows :— A man had three daughters to marry, and the expense of marrying the first two cost him all his fortune. The youngest remains unmarried, for the father has no money wherewith to buy a husband for her. She grows up towards womanhood and becomes an eyesore to her parents. In the meantime, the father of his second son-in-law institutes a criminal prosecution against him on a charge of passing as genuine, certain gilt ornaments, which he had given to his daughter at her marriage. In the midst of the confusion and misery which the prosecution leads to, the youngest daughter commits suicide and the catastrophe ends the play. Though devoid of artistic merit, the book is important as being a protest against a custom which is being attended with great practical inconvenience.	3851
March 30th	57	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	0 4 0	The Author, 52, Nawabdi Ostágar's Lane, Calcutta.	A social farce written with the object of ridiculing the female education and female emancipation movements. A man had two wives, of whom the younger one was a fashionable lady having a lot of admirers. The husband was in mortal dread of her, and she had her own way in all matters. Her two daughters were educated after her own fashion and given to drinking and coquetry like her. The mother courts a man named Nirvikár, who is secretly in love with her eldest daughter Bouquet. While amusing themselves in a garden, the daughter and her lover are discovered by the mother and by Lohárám, another suitor for the hand of Bouquet. Nirvikár is then shot dead by Lohárám and the daughter charges both Lohárám and her mother with murder. The catastrophe ends the play. It is full of indelicate ideas and expressions and the incidents described in it give a very false idea of Hindu radicalism, which it holds up to ridicule.	3852

Jan. 28th	111	12mo dy	1st...	500	Printed.	0 8 0	.....	The well-known story of Srí Krishna's arrival in Mathurá at the invitation of his uncle, the king Kansa, and there putting the king to death after a series of adventures and feats of arms. It was Akrúr who brought the king's message to Srí Krishna at Vrindávan, and hence the name of the play. The earlier portion of the book describing Srí Krishna taking leave of his foster parents, lady-love and associates of infancy is full of pathos.	3854

„ 11th	208	8vo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	1 0 0	Rám Kumár Laskar, 35, Grey Street, Calcutta.	The story of the persecution of a boy by a near relative of his father. The boy's name was V'rendra, and he was engaged to the daughter of Prithvi Náth, king of Nandannagar in the North-Western Provinces. His father Adityanáth was minister to the king. Bhairav Chandra was Adityanáth's nephew, and the prospect of his cousin's marriage in the royal family made him jealous, and he tried to get him out of the way. One day he sends Vírendra away on a pretext and circulates the story of his being devoured by a tiger. The news induces the sorrowing father to renounce the world for a time. The king also does the same thing, and in their absence Bhairav Chandra remains in charge of the administration and uses his position and influence in hatching plans against his cousin. The latter, however, finds in a 'traveller,' whom he accidentally meets on the way, a staunch friend, and, with his aid and advice, escapes the snares of his relative and eventually meets with his father, mother and the king. The traveller turns out to be a trusted friend and agent of his father, and the story ends with Vírendra's marriage with the king's daughter. The scene of the story is laid in the district of Midnapur, and the story abounds with thrilling incidents and hairbreadth escapes.	3856

March 22nd	119	12mo	1st...	500	ditto ...	0 12 0	The Author, 28, Sánkháritolá, Calcutta.	A story of upper class Bengali life illustrating the exemplary devotion of an upcountry durwan, named Akáli Singh to Suraválá, daughter of his deceased master, Pramathanáth, zamindar of Kuntalá, a village on the bank of the Padmá. Suraválá, who was left motherless in infancy, lost her father at twelve. Her paternal estate was encumbered with debts, and her father's amla left her in a body. It is only a maid-servant and the jemadar Akáli Singh, who, out of gratitude to their late master and love for his daughter, remained faithful to the family, and the story shews how Akáli saved his master's estate from ruin and took, to the last day of his life, a paternal interest in the girl. Amongst other characters, Mr. Donald, Magistrate, upon whom devolved the duty of bringing the estate of Pramathanáth under the Court of Wards and providing for the education of his daughter, and his amiable and kind-hearted wife, appear in a very favourable light. The book is well got up and written in fairly good Bengali.	3867

„ 1st	267	8vo cr	1st...	1,500	ditto ...	1 4 0	The Author, 2, Ananda Chatterji's Lane, Calcutta.	This is a religious poem, in the course of which the writer developes his own notions of Vaishnavism. The plot is as follows:—A man renounces the world, goes into a wood and sets his heart on the contemplation of God. His wife follows him thither, and her touching devotion to him put into his head, for the first time, the idea of worshipping God through love. He then goes to sleep and sees in a dream five girls seated in a wood and narrating, one after another, the adventures which befel them in their search after God. They represent five types of worshippers according to Vaishnavism and teach the doctrine of worshipping God in the following five ways: viz., 1st, by quietly meditating on Him; 2nd, by regarding Him as a master; 3rd, as a friend; 4th, as an object of affection; and 5th, as an object of love. Their story ended, they invoked the aid of Rádhá (Prakriti or the feminine principle in God) to help them in obtaining the favour of God or Srí Krishna. Rádhá comes, the girls get what they wanted and the man, who has hitherto been a silent spectator of the scene, fully realises the necessity and efficacy, from a spiritual point of view, of regarding God as an object of love and affection and of worshipping him accordingly. A vein of the utmost piety and spirituality runs through the poem, which is, as the editor admits in the preface, a development of the author's views on the lines of Chaitanyism. And these views have been set forth with an earnestness, which marks the author as a devoted follower of Chaitanya and a believer in his God-head.	3944
Feb. 29th	124	8vo cr	1st...	500	ditto ...	0 10 0	The Author, Bánkipur.	A book written with the express object of advocating the re-marriage of widows, or if that is not practicable, the revival of the ancient practice, under which a man's younger brother was allowed to have connection with his childless widow. It has an appendix written in prose headed Punarbhú, or the re-married widow, wherein the question of the propriety or otherwise of the re-marriage of widows is discussed from a Sástric point of view. The condition of Bengali widows is depicted in the book in dismal colours.	3945
April 28th	158	12mo dy	1st...	250	ditto ...	2 8 0	The Author, 7, Rám Mohan Sáhá's Lane, Simlá.	A collection of short pieces on a variety of subjects, chiefly emotional and lyrical. Many of the pieces contain a touch of genuine poetry. The writer is a Hindu lady well-known for her poetical works.	3946
